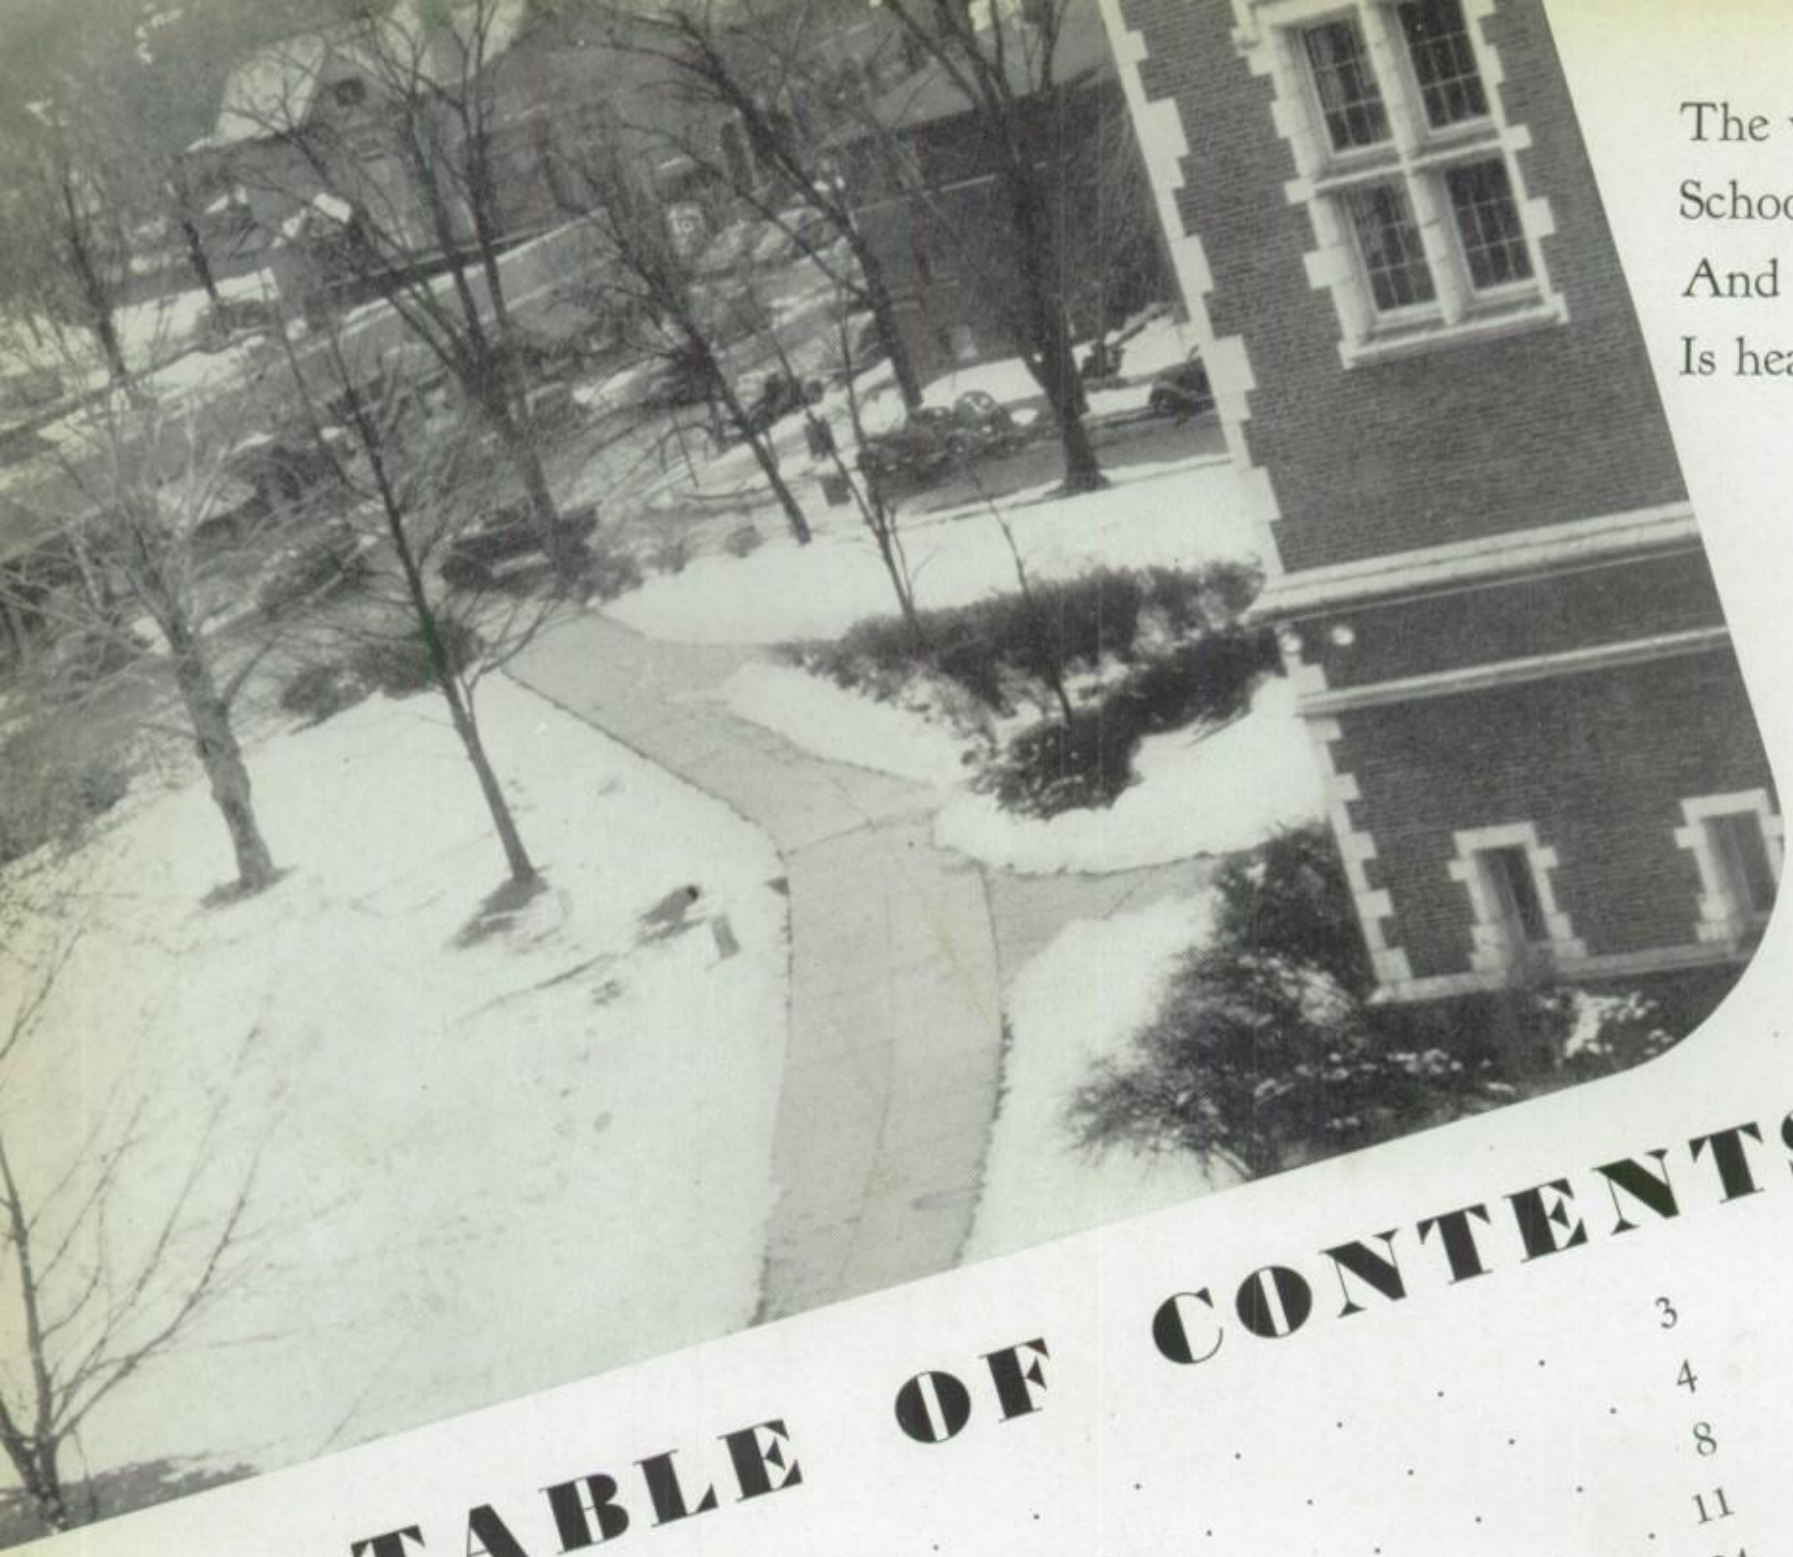
FOR 1938

ON Silver

ANNIVERSARY

This, the 25th Anniversary Scottonian, portrays the highlights of Scott as seen by the editors. The 1938 yearbook staff presents it to you as a prose, poetry, and photo picture of your life here.



The walk is barren,
School is o'er;
And students' noise
Is heard no more.

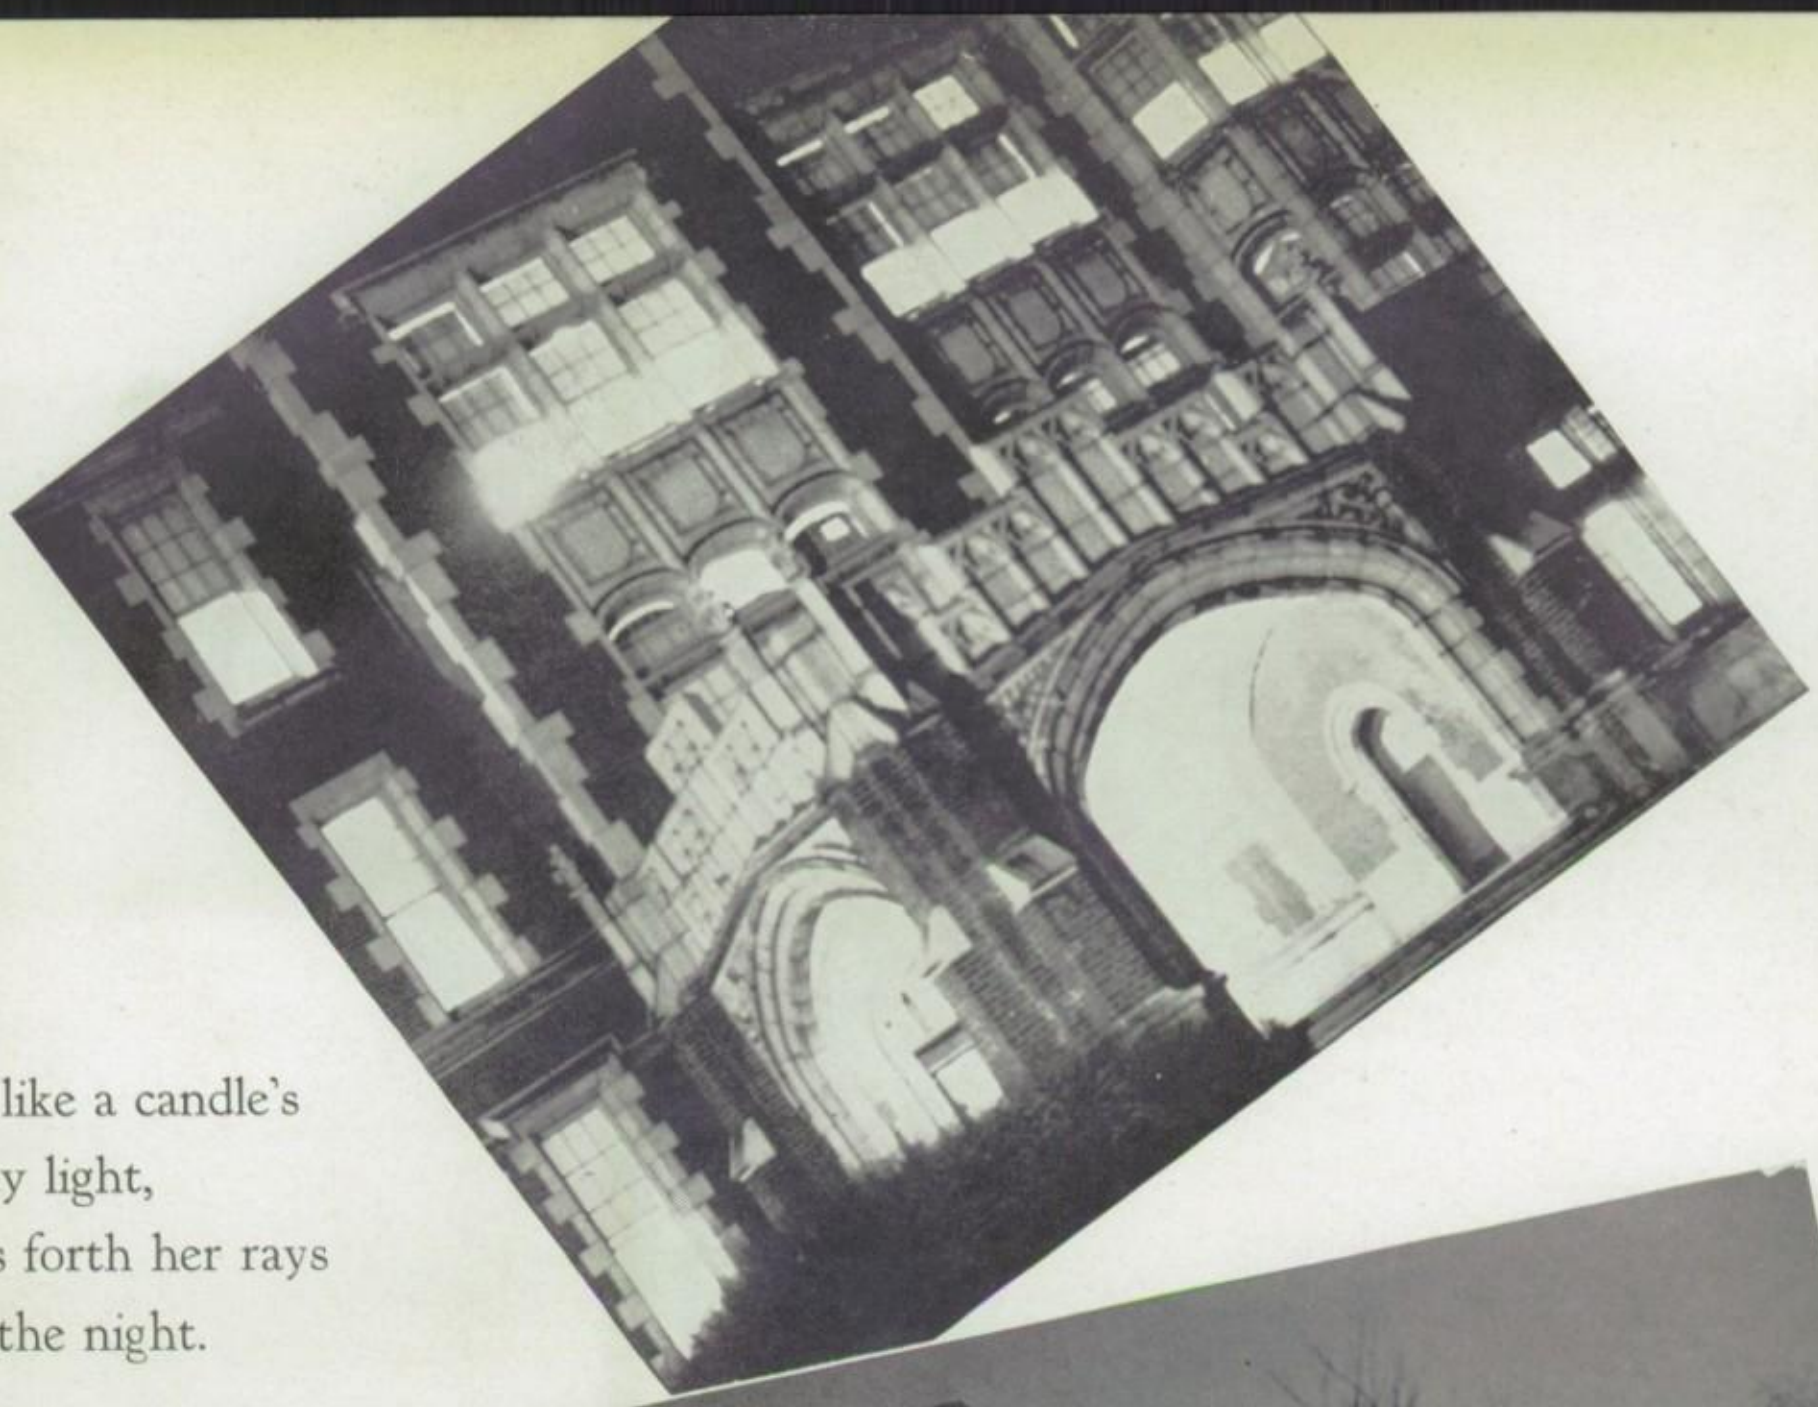
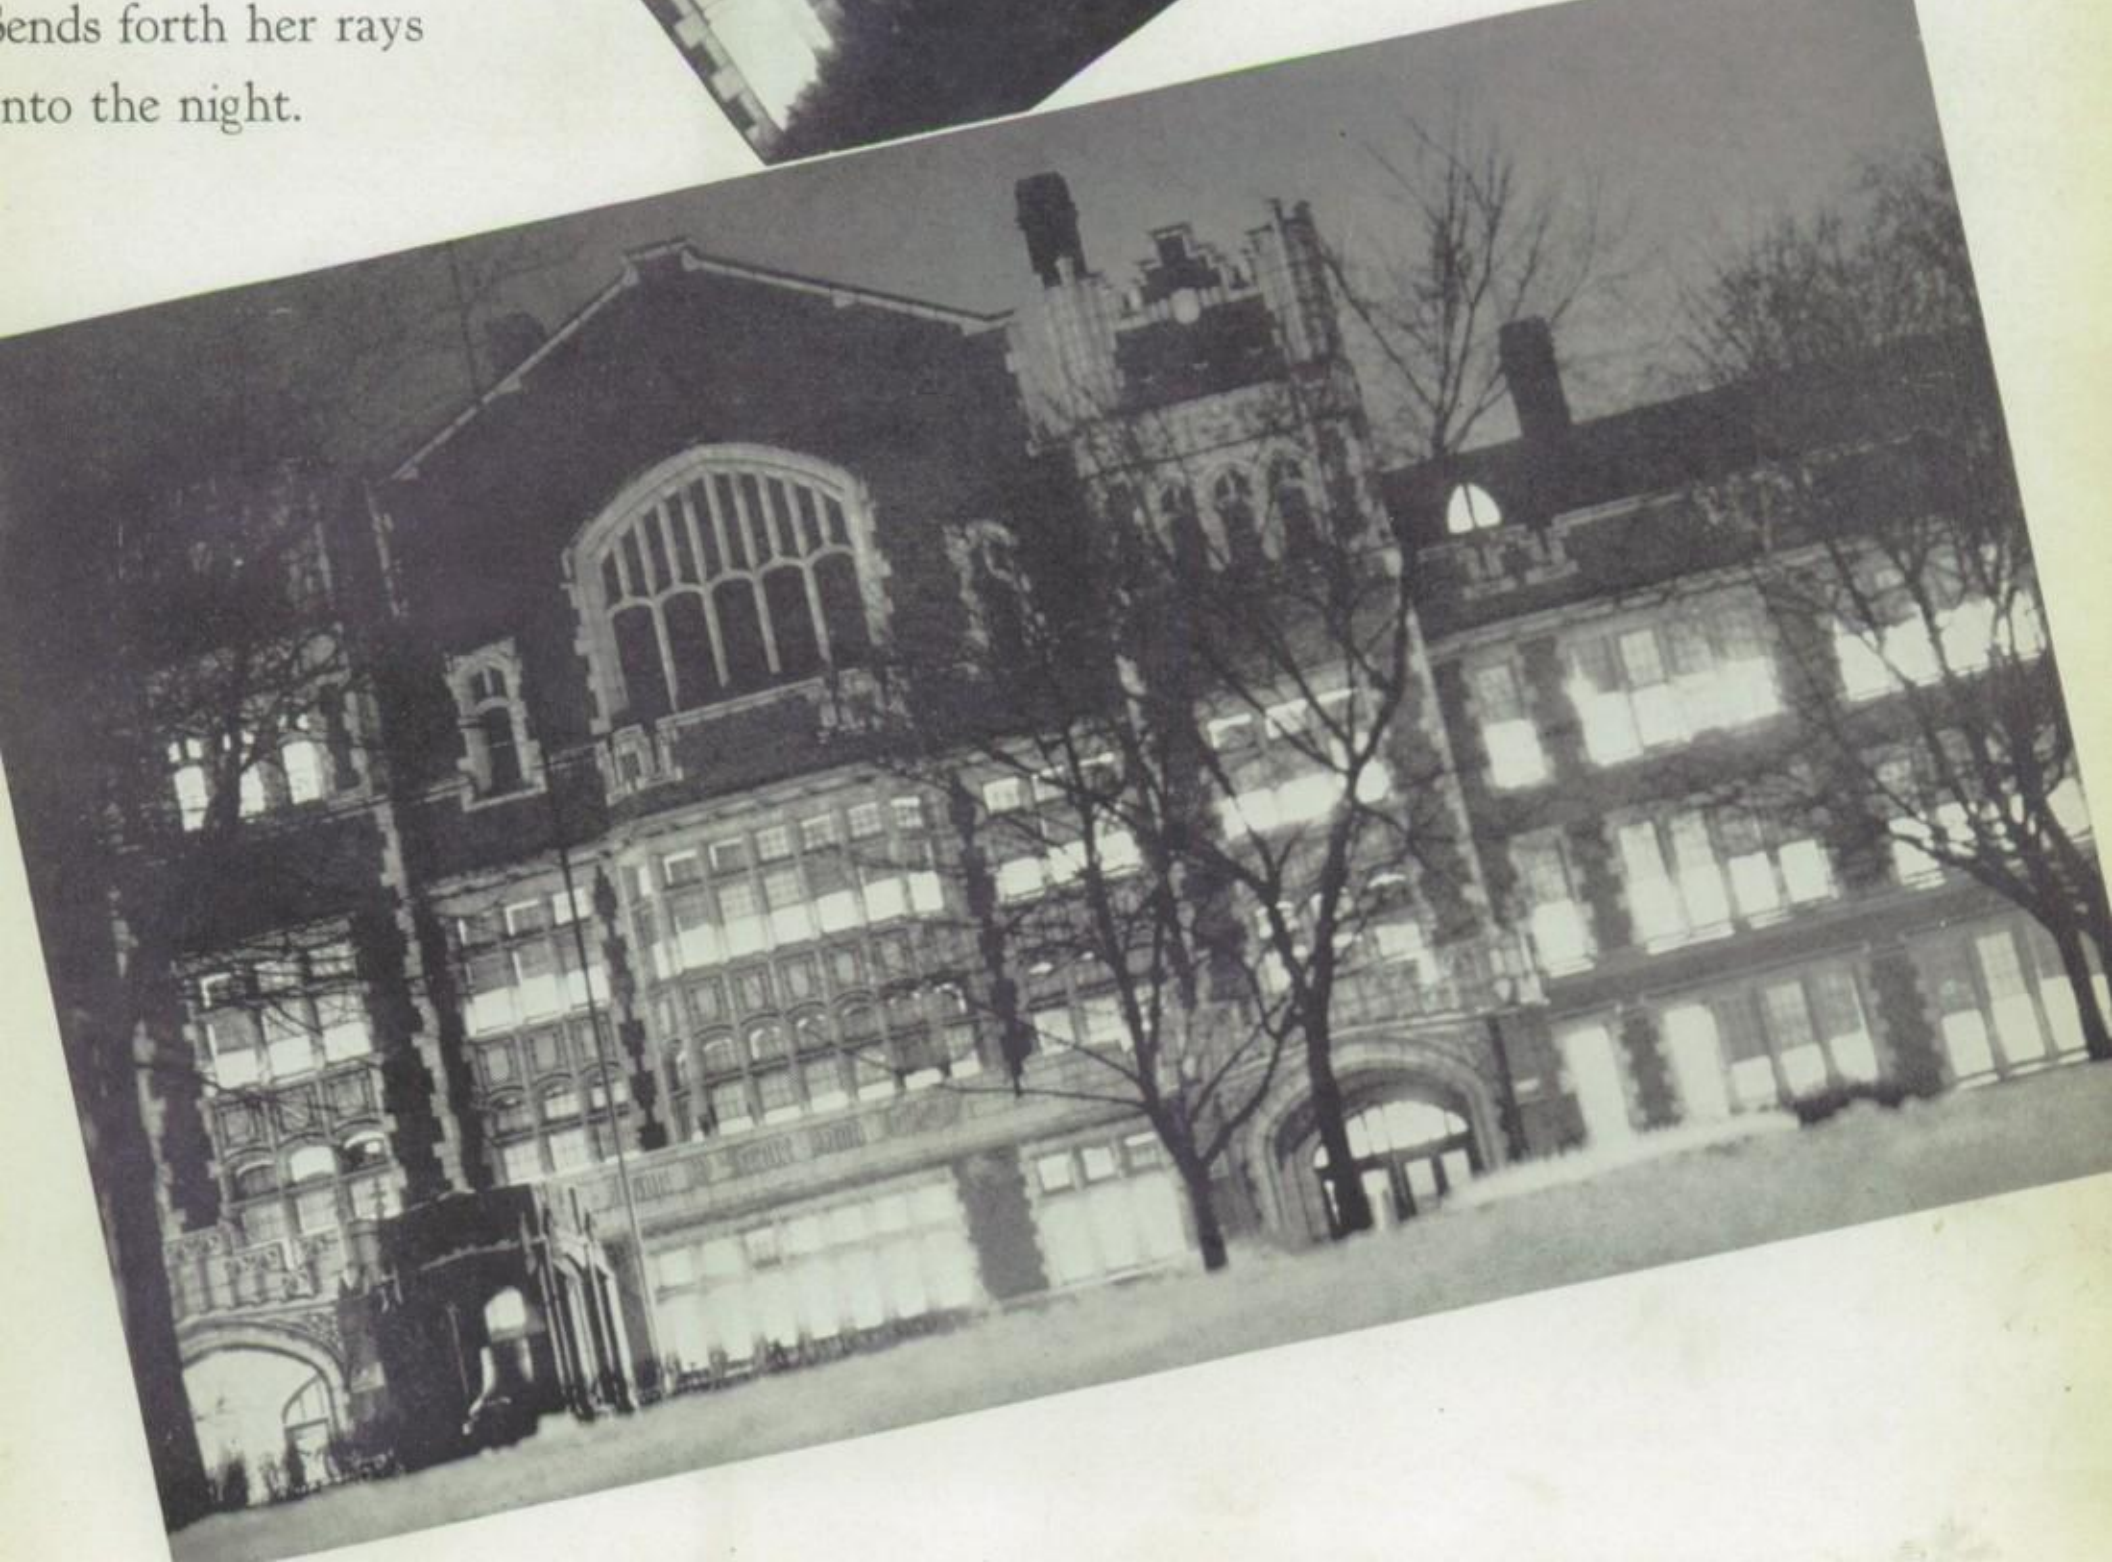
No feet remain
These steps to trod;
Just stones and shrubs
And covered sod.

But still she stands
There to remain
Until the students
Come again.



And like a candle's
steady light,
sends forth her rays
into the night.



Dedication

To Miss Humphrey:

We dedicate this book of thirty-eight,
In recognition of the years she spent
In endless work with spirit ever bent
Towards making each yearbook more up-to-date
Then, too, the things she manages to do
In school each day deserve the highest praise,
For with her charming smile and winning ways
Mishaps in what she does are very few.
No task is e'er too hard for her to try,
No shirker she; a worker true instead,
Who wants to ever take a step ahead
In pursuit of ideals she holds so high.
And, dear Miss Humphrey, your ascendancy
O'er Scott activities will ever be.

Clare Humphrey

SUPT. E. L. BOWSHER

This year we celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Scottonian—twenty-five years of publication—and we also celebrate the beginning of a new career by Mr. E. L. Bowsher. Formerly the Director of Education in the state of Ohio, he is now our Superintendent of Schools. He has been heartily welcomed by all, and the faculty of Scott High School held open house in his honor on the afternoon of October fourteenth to introduce him informally to his co-workers. The work which he has done in his short term of office has already won enthusiastic support from his friends and from the public.

FACULTY

PRINCIPAL DEMOREST

It is appropriate this year to look back in retrospect over the past history of Scott High School, for the year 1937-38 marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of our school. This fact is especially significant to those of us on the faculty who have served Scott since her doors were first opened in September 1913. Sons and daughters of early Scott graduates have been in our graduating classes for the last five years or more. It is, therefore, not at all strange that Scott traditions are deeply implanted in the families making up Scott district.

The record of high attainment of Scott graduates is one of which we may well be proud. It is my earnest hope that present Scott students will make every effort to maintain this fine record, so that they, together with student groups in succeeding years, may make Scott an increasingly helpful place for the training of boys and girls.

The names listed here
Of teachers, you'll find,
Make the alphabet
Come into your mind.

For right there they are,
As plain as can be,
Those three little letters
A, B, and C.

But they teach us more
Than such simple things;
A subject worthwhile
Each one of them brings.

And here are twelve more
Equipped with degrees
To teach you with deftness,
Swiftness, and ease.

From typing to art
Their knowledge does reach;
Along with all this
They know how to teach.

No rod do they use,
Nor rule on the head;
The counsel they give
Works wonders instead.

Look at these faces
Of teachers so kind
Who help to develop
Each student's mind.

Day and night service
They offer to all
Who enter their classrooms
To pay a call.

No need for tickets,
Nor waiting in line;
A pencil schedule
Will fix you up fine.

And now come the L's

With M's right behind,
Your friendship to win.

They're anxious to know
Your troubles or joys;

For Scott's girls and boys.

Now don't you dare think
That teachers at Scott
Are fond just of books,
For really they're not.

They work hard in class
Each day it is true,
But they can find time
For some hobbies, too.

As proof of this fact
These snaps we have shown.
Just see what they do
When they are alone.

So now you can see
How we are endowed.
Is it any wonder
We are so proud?

We've given to you

OFFICE STAFF

"May I have another copy of the morning announcements?" "Where can I find Miss Fields this hour?" "When will Mr. Demorest be in his office?" "Will you ring a special bell now?" . . . Questions, questions, questions! 'Mid ringing telephones and clicking typewriters they are continually hurled at the girls in the office. Yet through all of the disturbance and confusion Miss Bierly, Mrs. Biggs, and Mrs. Hoover remain smilingly ready to help anybody who goes there. Besides answering telephone calls, taking care of the school correspondence, checking students' schedules, and doing all of the other things that must be done, they are always willing to do more. Nothing is so unimportant to them that they are not interested.

Such is the spirit of Scott High School! Any student who has visited the office will agree with this statement, and those who have not had an occasion to go there should visit the office some time just to find out what fine service and attention they will be given.

Let's look into the library at night after every one has gone and the room is still. There is no light except that of the moon shining through the windows, but it serves to reflect the books lined row upon row standing straight on the shelves. Nearby the busts of Shakespeare and Voltaire stand out in relief as they stare straight ahead into the semi-darkness. What secrets they hold will never be known, for their silence they rigidly keep.

On the wall is the picture of Miss Caughey keeping vigil over all. There are valuable books there—books of fiction, classics, reference, science, and literature—all of which must be guarded faithfully, for they represent Scott High School in the world of libraries. They are a fine representation, too, and students and teachers alike should hold them in their esteem. May Scott always have such a fine library and such a fine staff to carry on its work in the daytime!

IN MEMORY OF

MR. F. P. TIMMONS

The passing of a Christian gentleman, an upright citizen, whose largest interest was to be of service to others is ever a great loss to any community, but if that one be an associate and friend, such a loss can only be expressed in heart throbs.—Ralph H. Demorest.

Our beloved teacher, our dear friend, and our enthusiastic companion. As administrator and as teacher, his whole life was devoted to the service of youth, and in that service he retained his own youthful outlook to the very end. At Scott, where he spent the latter years of his life, teachers and pupils alike, who knew him, will always cherish his memory and can never forget his helpful inspiration. That inspiration arose in no small measure from the fact that, in his every thought and act, he was a true gentleman.—Roy A. Welday.

New Faces . . . . . A bystander viewing the reopening of another school year could readily distinguish the Freshmen by the eager expectancy upon their faces. The seriousness with which they attack school problems tends to set a fine example for all other students.

With their ready pep and enthusiasm we can rest assured we will be as proud of them as they are of Scott. A fine example of this is shown in the cooperation of the entire class in all events sponsored by the group.

Their success is due both the fine supervision of their class deans, Miss Smead and Mr. Corbett, and their class officers. May the deans continue to be as ready, willing, and able to help in school affairs in future years as they have been this year. The Freshman class has succeeded in doing a great deal for the school as a whole. May they continue to do even more to make Scott an ideal school.

SOPHOMORES

Forging on . . . . Reaching the half way mark we find a more poised, sedate group going quietly to their classes. They have become accustomed to the routine of high school, and are steadily plugging ahead.

Their voices can be heard with cheerful enthusiasm at all school activities, where they uphold sportsmanship and loyalty to the utmost.

It remains with them to add many memorable event's to Scotts history. They show themselves capable of upholding the traditions of which we are so proud. They enjoyed many delightful experiences this year, and are looking forward to many more.

At a meeting of the class early in the school year they selected capable members of their class as candidates for class officers. With the assistance of the Organizations' Commission they succeeded in carrying out their election. Members elected to serve as their representatives in school affairs and the student council are shown above. Through the cooperation of the class deans and their officers, they were able to make all events sponsored by the class a success.

J U N I O R S

Looking Forward . . . . . We now have a more sophisticated group of students who have retained the eagerness of a Freshman, and the poise of a Sophomore. They can appreciate the value of education to a greater extent and apply themselves to their studies with more fervor.

The class this year experienced many memorable events. To add to their enjoyment the annual "J-Hop" proved to be a great success.

As our future seniors, they are doing a splendid job of leadership and cooperation. This is shown by the class officers and their deans, Miss Smead, Miss Schaff, Mr. Corbett, and Mr. Baum, and the willingness of the entire class to enter all school activity.

The Junior Ring Committee selected a beautiful ring late in the second semester, which Juniors were entitled to buy if they had the necessary credits. Their selection was a result of careful thought and consideration.

As they approach the goal which they have looked forward to all their school life, may they find it more enjoyable than their highest expectations.

S E N I O R S

"Memories, memories, dreams of days gone by!" Gazing back upon these last years, we cannot help reminiscing. There was our initial year—we accustomed ourselves to Scott's seeming vastness. Then in our sophomore year we experienced our first prom! What a thrill! Douglass Winter, Mabel Greene, Alice Deeds, Bob Ellis, elected officers, led us ably through that year. Last year Bill Mason, selected for the class presidency, Mabel Greene, Jane Davis, George Cole other officers, guided our career as the junior class of 1938. With eagerness we picked the class ring. Our J-Hop was a festive occasion which was both a social and financial success. Now it is with gladness that we look backward and know that we have left a lasting impression in Scott's history.

SENIORS AT WORK

SENIORS AT PLAY

In the upper left hand corner we see Lorraine Schwab 'phoning her sweetie in that rip snorting smash hit "The Nut Farm." Next in line is that charming couple, Eddie Arenson and Ginnie Nathanson, enjoying themselves so immensely at the Senior Mid Year—dancing to the tunes of Bob Batchelor's orchestra. Those happy smiling faces in the upper right hand are seated in the lounge of the Richardson Building. They belong to the Senior Social Committee—Janet Urich, Erle Hill, Marian Turner, Wilbur Blume, and William Schomberg. Their big responsibility is the arrangement of the Senior Prom. That's Doug Winter in the lower left hand corner doing a bit of expostulating from another scene of the Senior Play. Nice going, Dougie! And next to the man with the moustache is the gang who helped plan the Hi-Y Convention dance—all representatives in Northwestern Ohio attending. Standing, are Wilbur Blume, Douglas Winter, and James Benschoter; sitting, Virginia Girkins, Ruthmary Woolf and Mabel Greene.

GRADUATION

To seniors, graduation brings on a serious, contemplative attitude which, seemingly over-sentimental to some, is a natural and worthy feeling at this time. After spending four years of our growing-up period in a school such as Scott, among loved classmates, and under inspiring guidance, we cannot help looking back on our school life with glowing satisfaction. Our high school, with its remarkable reputation and traditions, we shall never forget. Perhaps we can explain our deep-felt emotion by comparing Scott with the phenomenal Gulf Stream surging through the mighty ocean. Like that stream our school radiates a welcoming warmth to all of us who are fortunate enough to swim Scott's seas. Under the influence of our controlling shores, the faculty, we have progressed rapidly in this organized powerful current. But upon graduation we lose the benign influence of warm currents. We have been prepared, however, and we are confident that as older and wiser persons, we shall be able to swim successfully alone. Thus we are given the challenge. Shall we flounder about aimlessly until we finally sink, or shall we by steady strokes reach an alluring shore that we may call our goal? Unanimously choosing the latter, we stand ready to breast the tides of life, ready to start with the triumphant shout: "We are alumni of Scott High School!"

SCOTTONIAN

Continual chatter, clatter, and clang . . . room 105 is at it again as the Scottonian for 1938 marches on . . . The click clicking of typewriters . . . the sickening smell of glue . . . the constant clink clanking of numerous nickles, dimes, and what have you (the financial end of the staff in action) . . . blinding lights glaring into your eyes at every turn . . . to say nothing of the chance remarks and questions shooting from every quarter of the room . . . "Don't forget all write-ups have to be in by the tenth". . . "What rhymes with 'hair' and means 'beautiful'? . . . "Yes, I know it would make a good picture, but after all, there isn't a cow within ten miles of here" . . . and thus pass busy hours, hours we'll never forget . . . Mr. Roe is our general adviser, Mr. Lamb, our literary adviser, and Miss Morgan, our art adviser . . . Harold Scheer is our editor and general "urger on-er" . . . On the editorial staff we have Mary Jane Murphy, faculty editor . . . Mary Williams, senior editor, and Beatrice Borman, assistant . . . Dick Hyman, feature editor, with Julius Lerner helping . . . George Cole, athletic editor, aided by Kenneth Arndt . . . Mabel Greene, organizations editor, with Irene Betty Smith assisting . . . and Gertrude Krannich, classes editor . . . Bob Linker, business manager, Violet Davis, circulation manager, and Bob Hamilton hold up the laurels of an A-No. 1 business staff . . . Betty Deiterle is our typist . . . Arthur Milstein serves as art editor . . . All pictures are taken by Don Tarshis and Wilbur Blume and are developed by George Pinkus and Bob Billstein . . . The work of paneling is carried on by Betty Seiss and her assistant, Jean Earl . . . December brought our annual Christmas party . . . getting well under way before the "Cinderella hour" . . . a really gay affair . . . So now the year draws to a close . . . with half of us looking forward to another year with the Scottonian . . . half of us dreading to leave 105 and the people in it . . . but the joy of knowing each other, of working and playing together for one, two, or (for some of us) even three years will never be forgotten.

William Pickett

A cardboard sign on the door that says "DO NOT DISTURB", a few tables, files of student schedules, some chairs, a much-marked-up calendar, commissioners' mail-boxes,—all are landmarks of room 208, the conference room for all commissioners of the Scott Student Council. Student commissioners were appointed in September by our efficient president, Bill Pickett, with representatives from each home room making up the various commissions. In no small measure has the success of this year's Student Council been due to the capableness and hard work of Gene Bright, vice president, and Jo Ann Morrison, secretary. Mr. O. B. Kirk, for ten years director of extra curricular activities, retired, temporarily, at the beginning of the second semester for a much deserved rest. In Mr. Lake, new director of activities, the Council has found another able leader. With Miss Kirkby as director of social activities, and with Bill Mason, social commissioner, and Esther Jean Simon, assistant, the Social Commission has sponsored many affairs, including the annual Student Council Dance, the carrying into effect of a year-round courtesy campaign, and a race relations week. The task of choosing hall patrols and supervising them fell into the hands of the Citizenship Commission, with Bob Rowley as commissioner, Mary Helen Bettridge as his assistant, and Mr. Rettig as general overseer. Donning the cap of justice was commissioner, Eugene Dautell, of the Justice Commission, and assistant, Donald Norris, who passed all judgments on law breaking lads and lasses and acted accordingly. Helen Kirkbride, commissioner of the Welfare and Service Commission, and Earl Sala, assistant, had charge of all projects involving either welfare or service work, including the decorating of Christmas baskets and the planning of the Christmas assembly. Elections of all kinds and all club work were under the supervision of the Organizations Commission, headed by Jane Graham, with Patsy Hayes assisting. The Publicity Commission, under the direction of Jane Keller, commissioner, and Leona Ozarzak, assistant, kept the newspapers and students informed as to all school activities at Scott. With Frank Raggon (and, incidentally, we still want to know who the admirer was who insisted upon leaving love-notes and candy kisses in Frank's mail-box each morning) as commissioner and Bill Dunn as assistant the Boys' Athletic Commission directed all athletic assemblies and intra-mural activities. The Football Banquet and matters concerning girls' athletics were handled by the Girls' Athletic Commission under Lois Bell's direction and that of her assistant, Jean Irlam. The Finance Commission, with Mr. Langstaff as its adviser, had as its commissioner, Lois Arndt, with Janet Urich as assistant commissioner. This commission handled all money matters of the entire school. And so, as the commission type of government for Scott reaches the end of another year, we find it still a great success and what is even more important, a type of government which is thoroughly satisfactory to the students as well as to the teachers.

FINANCE COMMISSION

In French it's "lucre", in Latin it's "pecunia", and in good old American it's just plain "money", but whatever it is, the Finance Commission gets it. Clubs, dances, games, parties, pay assemblies, all turn their receipts over to these "balancers of the budget" who, in turn, record and accredit the returns to the group from which they came. But that's not all they do—not by a long way. This year they have brought to Scott "The Sterlings", who held students wide-eyed and open-mouthed as they pulled "bunnies" from top hats, made all sorts of things disappear, and even practiced ventriloquism. "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" also came to life as the commission presented the Ray Smith Marionette Co., and movies were brought to school on several Thursdays during seventh and eighth hours. But besides providing a lot of amusement for the student body, the Finance Commission has a little fun of its own on the side. A Halloween Party was given at night in room 207, with black cats and witches pasted all around the walls and everyone coming dressed as a pumpkin. Cold weather found our commission ice-skating at Bill Schomburg's cottage, and last came Valentine's Day with everyone writing a poem and valentine for someone else. So with Mr. Langstaff as adviser and Lois Arndt as commissioner we leave the Finance Commission, counting its tickets, pinching its pennies, wrinkling its brow, and balancing its budget, as it draws to the close of another year, carrying with it records of great service for Scott.

Lois Arndt, Commissioner, and Jean Beat sell movie tickets.

JUNIOR CHORUS

The bell rings out through hall and classroom alike as Monday morning's second hour class is brought to an end. A large group of girls from various parts of the building make their ways through the crowded halls, all with the auditorium as their goal. Ten minutes later might be heard, upon opening the auditorium door, sweet notes of music, for Monday morning means rehearsal for all Junior Chorus members. Under Mr. Kirk's direction the girls learn both classical music and good modern music. Although the club contains only girls, on any regular rehearsal day may be seen at least one particular lad (who would not leave for anything) and often two or three. These lads are always ready, and willingly lend hands at moving pianos, carrying chairs, straightening up, or at anything else the girls' hearts may desire, but then we don't blame the boys a bit. I imagine lots of other boys would gladly give their services if they could sit down there in front and gaze with admiration as these future Jeanette McDonalds, or Jessica Dragonettes, ring out their voices to the farthest corners of the auditorium. But all this rehearsal must lead to something, and so we find our girls, looking mighty pretty up there on the stage, singing away and brightening up several assemblies and P. T. A. programs. So now we shut the auditorium door once more, feeling much brighter for what we have heard, and leave the girls to sing and to keep on singing and carrying out the purpose of their club, "To give good music to girls at Scott who wish it."

Margaret Modrall, president, plays the piano while a member sings.

ORCHESTRA

The course of study offered orchestra members this year, in addition to playing, included music appreciation. . . . The work provided a study of masters of music . . . . past and present . . . . and their contributions to the world. . . . This study was interesting . . . . made so by reports . . . . and by actually hearing the works of the masters by means of a phonograph. . . . This was found to be an enjoyable way of gaining a real knowledge and appreciation of music. . . . The first public appearance of the orchestra was at the Christmas assembly. . . . On the same day the members added to the Christmas spirit by playing carols in the refectory. . . . One day at rehearsal . . . . when all expected to hear classical music come out of the instruments . . . . "the music went round and round" and came out "How Dry I Am" . . . . Toot! Squeak! Squeak! . . . . the tuning up begins for the orchestra. . . . At last everyone joins in solemnly to perfect a piece that will be given in concert later. . . . In the absence of Miss Werum, whose splendid direction has made Scott's orchestra outstanding, Mr. Leonard has been a capable substitute. . . . When the chorus presented its annual operetta in February, the orchestra ably assisted in the performance. . . . The orchestra held its own annual concert on March twenty-eighth. . . . The last event in which the orchestra participated was the annual Spring Festival . . . . a gala affair . . . . with all the high school bands and choruses taking part . . . . a grand finale to a most successful year.

Leland Rees, president, relaxes as a member blows the big horn.

The crowd stands . . . . hearts swell . . . . enthusiasm mounts . . . . as the band . . . . in maroon and white . . . . marches onto the field . . . . marking time to the ever inspiring "Scott High Forever" . . . . Little girls gaze with worship in their eyes . . . . as drum-major, Doug Winter, struts down the field. . . . All Scott watches with pride a band which is recognized as the finest marching unit in the city. . . . The game with Findlay found our boys and girls packed in the bus three-deep . . . . with a collection of trombones . . . . trumpets . . . . heads . . . . and more . . . . sticking out of the windows . . . . Christmas week disclosed Scott's band . . . . thrilling all Toledo . . . . as it marched up and down the downtown streets . . . . parading for the old news-boys' Christmas fund sale. . . . Proud teachers . . . . and prouder parents . . . . turned out to enjoy the beating rhythm of our boys and girls as they played for a P. T. A. meeting. . . . And not only did our band boom out for us on the gridiron . . . . Basketball games and assemblies were also pepped up by the beating of drums . . . . and the tooting of horns . . . much to our delight . . . . More reason to be proud of our band came with the announcement that our drum-major . . . . and many of our boys and girls . . . . as first chair players . . . . have been selected for the Annual Spring Festival . . . . composed of the combined musical organizations of the city. . . . So with these honors heaped upon their heads, we leave our band . . . . with the members looking eagerly forward to the Spring Festival . . . . and with the underclassmen hoping for as outstanding a program next year as they have had this year . . .

PEIUPER CLUB

A whistle blasts through the air . . . a tense crowd leans expectantly forward as the fifth annual basketball game begins. . . . Peiuper Club vs. Faculty. . . . The girls in the stands heave sighs of untold admiration as Mr. Rettig grabs the ball. . . . The score remains close throughout as teachers and students clash upon equal terms. . . . With Mr. Bistline as top scoring man the faculty stages a last-minute rally, and Mr. Mater sinks the final basket to make the score 13-11—Faculty. . . . For Halloween the club sponsored its second annual Costume Ball . . . . with masculine hearts beating faster as a "Mystery Girl" made her appearance as an added attraction. . . . So, all in all, the dance was a grand success . . . . thanks to Sam Rosenberg's untiring effort. . . . Donning everything but the brass buttons . . . . and "billy clubs" . . . . the Peiuper Club showed their loyalty to Scott by "standing guard" to keep any inquisitive investigators off the premises . . . . as Mr. Rettig put the football squad through secret practices during the two weeks preceding the big Turkey-day Battle. . . . So thanks, boys . . . . your efforts were well rewarded . . . . for all of us . . . . on Thanksgiving morning. . . . Merrily waving maroon and white shakers, the boys appeared at the Scott-Waite football assembly . . . . shouting lustily . . . . and selling promptly . . . . as they again showed their service by selling the colorful shakers obtained from Miss O'Brien. . . . So on marches the Peiuper Club with its three phases of interest,—education . . . . athletics . . . . and social activities . . . . and truly lives up to its name, Peiuper . . . . which is just another way of saying "Progress."

E N G I N E E R S

Harold Freedman, president, and other officers work on the club paper.

"Let's see now," sighs one Engineers' pledge . . . ."Just what do I multiply the length of the shadow by to find the height?". . . . He's been gazing long . . . . and thinking hard . . . . as he attempts to compute the height of the flagpole . . . . just one of the many tasks assigned to pledges. . . . Other pledges . . . . in other parts of the building . . . . attempt feats equally puzzling . . . . "Oh! for the life of a member!" they sigh, as they take up their rulers . . . . and pencils . . . . and trudge away . . . . back to their wearisome tasks . . . . But the members seem to have a complaint or so too . . . . as they confide into our sympathetic ears that at their last meeting there were no less than fourteen people interrupting the meeting to make announcements . . . . But on their field trips . . . . say the members . . . . the real work of the club . . . . and the real fun too . . . . actually begins . . . . For instance, trips were made to the Champion Spark Plug . . . . Toledo Scale . . . Willys Overland . . . . and Toledo Blade. . . . And speaking of the Toledo Blade . . . . we understand that several souvenirs were collected . . . . in the form of small type letters . . . . by certain members . . . . and we are told that these same members . . . . on a trip to the Toledo Machine & Tool . . . . were deeply disappointed upon finding that the only obtainable souvenirs . . . . sad to say . . . . weighed several tons . . . . Better luck next time, boys. . . . Besides field trips and talks there have been social activities. . . . So Engineers . . . . we leave you . . . . having accomplished much, and in a position to keep up the fine work. . . .

With smiles on their faces and bundles tucked away under their arms, our Freshman Friendship girls start out to do one of their many acts of service . . . that of brightening Christmas a bit with gifts for orphans at the Miami Children's Home . . . After spending their first quarter in the blundering, brain-racking business of getting organized . . . the girls made up for lost time during the remainder of the year . . . . Besides happy orphans Christmas also brought a gay and hilarious party . . . Other activities of the year included a theater party . . . with "eats" afterwards . . . a talk by Mrs. Erausquin on her escape from war-torn Spain . . . and a talk by Winifred Frost on her adventures in the spooky, cobwebby castles of old Scotland . . . A discussion on personality by Miss Fields was also given, after which . . . much to everyone's embarrassment . . . no electric plug could be found for the corn popper . . . and so—no pop corn . . . Taking leave of this club, we look with admiration at the success of their first year . . . and foresee splendid things ahead for these girls . . .

Ruth Clark, president, and Phillis Bueche, vice president buy a Scottonian.

The Sophomore Friendship Club has had but two years' experience . . . but the members have learned that loyalty, sincerity, and each one doing his share make the club a success . . . Meetings are held weekly with a very able adviser . . . As the first means of getting together the club staged a mock wedding . . . . During December, to spread Christmas cheer, the members sang carols . . . Educational trips were part of the program . . . The DeVilbiss plant, Safety Building, and Radio Station were visited . . . During January the theme "Personality" was carried out . . . In February, "Race Relations" month, the members' mothers and the Freshman Friendship Club were entertained at tea . . . with Mrs. McKnight as guest speaker . . . The Sophomore Hi-Y boys from DeVilbiss . . . and the Scott Sophomore Friendship Club held a joint meeting . . . There was an interesting meeting in February . . . when Miss Sinclair of the Toledo Public Library spoke on current books . . . After the club attended a movie in a body, the subject for March was "Movies" . . . At the season's end the Sophomore Friendship Club looks back at a full year . . . a year of instructive programs, gay social events, and fine ideals created.

FRIENDSHIP

With roller skates on their feet and friendship on their minds, the Junior Friendship girls started out their third year at a party at the Y. W. C. A. . . . Late November brought a roast . . . with fifteen brave couples turning out at 6.30 A. M. . . . The big event of the year, "Snow Flurry," found our Friendship girls . . . and Hi-Y boys . . . dancing to the strains of Bob Batchelor's orchestra . . . . February gave us Miss Refior, trotting away with first prize for games played after a faculty tea given by these girls . . . DeVilbiss Hi-Y boys were entertained at a potluck . . . followed by a discussion on "Boy and Girl Relations" by Mrs.Hale Shenefield . . . Maroon and white corsages . . . and mothers, beaming and proud, formed the setting for an assembly honoring the football players' mothers, sponsored by these girls . . . "Christmas in Song" was enacted by the club . . . And so now . . . in the midst of a series of talks on "Getting along with People" . . . we leave our Junior Friendship girls . . . to become as fine a senior club of next year as they have been a junior club of this year.

Laverne Shafer, president, smiles as she plans the Faculty Tea.

Satisfied expressions . . . prompted by filled "tummies" . . . marked the party-potluck of the Senior Friendship girls and Senior Hi-Y boys . . . Shortly afterwards came a theater party . . . just girls . . . followed by a spread at Ruthmary Woolf's house, during which fortunes were told, as each girl listened, engrossed, to find out whether "he" would be tall, dark, and handsome . . . or blond and athletic . . . Then came a splash party at the Y. W. C. A. . . . with delicious food, and games and dancing . . . At Christmas time orphans were given gifts by the girls, and on Valentine's Day each orphan received a big valentine and a stick of gum . . . Interesting meetings included a talk by Miss Herler . . . a question-box discussion, in which each girl wrote on a slip of paper any question on which she wanted to hear the other members' opinions . . . and also, around Christmas, a community sing . . . So thus has passed the final year of Friendship Club work for these girls . . . They have completed the fourth and last book of their history . . . a history of which they can well be proud.

Ruthmary Woolf, president, ponders over plans for a splash party.

Members rush down the halls with determined gleams in their eyes . . . . A membership drive is on! . . . . A bit of persuasion . . . . lots of determination . . . . and plenty of "stick-to-it-iveness" . . . . all help to make this drive a success . . . . with the result that the next week finds pledges . . . . not members . . . . darting wildly about . . . . trying to avoid rather than find members . . . . as they lead the regular hunted . . . . and haunted . . . . lives of pledges . . . . November discloses the members . . . . old and new . . . . working busily on the State Hi-Y Convention . . . . which turned out to be well worth everyone's efforts. . . . With February comes the outstanding event of the year. . . . The club joins the Junior Friendship Club (much to the delight of committee members) to plan the annual dance . . . . "Snow Flurry" . . . . which found everybody dancing the "Big Apple" and having a wonderful time. . . . And so . . . . with speakers, sports, and fun . . . . the Junior Hi-Y closes its third year on a program of well-rounded activity, looking forward . . . . expectantly and hopefully . . . . to its fourth and final year.

Bill Patterson, president, discusses club business with a fellow member.

Ears prick up . . . . murmuring voices trail off into nothingness as the room becomes unexpectedly quiet. . . . The regular Monday night Senior Hi-Y meeting begins. . . . Plans are made . . . . some serious . . . . some gay. . . . Among the serious, which have been carried out, have been talks on college, leadership, and race relations. . . . A lecture was also given by Dr. Slutz, nationally known counselor of young people. . . . Among the gay, have come the much renowned "stag parties" at the cottage of Dud Roemer, adviser, where Lake Erie lent its ice for the scene of many never-to-be-forgotten experiences. . . . Also . . . . in the line of fun . . . . must be included the State Hi-Y Conference dance and parties with the Senior Friendship Club. . . . In regard to personal achievements we find that the boys claim to be both the lustiest singers and the best cooks in the school . . . . and there's no convincing them otherwise. . . . But anyhow they're a fine group of boys . . . . and, as such, we leave them . . . . faithfully carrying out their motto . . . . "To create, maintain, and extend throughout school and community high standards of Christian character."

Ted Ayers, president, and several members hold a "sing-session."

HALL PATROLS

"No loitering in the halls!" shouts one of our corridor castigators . . . The wee freshman lassie with plaid hair bows is just strolling by for the fourth time . . . heaving sighs of ardent admiration as she makes a note of the nonchalance of the senior hall patrol . . . She thinks his loud plaid socks are just "oh, so sweet" . . . But then who can blame the lassies . . . with such handsome hall patrols and everything . . . even if they do lurk around corners with subpoenas up their sleeves . . . ? They're really not a bad lot . . . They lead an awful life, too, you know . . . If it isn't a yelping pup on the third floor, it's a group of giggling girls on the first . . . and then, too, visitors must be properly directed to office, refectory, gym, etc . . . . and some of our lads have to be restrained from carving the names of the "objects of their affections" all over our beautiful lockers . . . so you see what our hall patrols must put up with all day long . . . and they really do remarkably well . . . under Mr. Rettig's capable guidance . . . Without them our halls would very likely be bellowing bedlams instead of the orderly, well-managed places that they are . . . And if ever you should happen to be careless . . . and accidentally run off and leave your locker open . . . You will discover, when you open it again, that some nice hall patrol has locked it for you and placed a note in it saying, "Your locker was open. Be more careful next time." . . . so we certainly should "thank our lucky stars" for such considerate hall patrols . . . And not only are they considerate, but they're also very capable . . . and very, very determined . . . If you don't think so, just try to get out of one of the first floor doors without a building permit, and you'll find out that these boys really do their jobs . . . and do them very well . . . So there you are, girls . . . take your pick . . . They're handsome, capable, and "footloose and fancy free" . . . and just between you and me, I have a little inside information that three or four of them can even cook . . . After all what more could any of us ask . . . ?

Commissioner Bob Rowley sits and guards a first floor door.

"Lucky Zet pledges!" . . . exclaim pledges of other literary societies . . . "They don't have to do such outlandish things as we do." . . . And so we investigated the statement and found it to be true . . . This year the Zetalethean Literary Society decided to make its pledging and initiation less foolish and more impressive . . . Then came some fun . . . as the members held a scavenger hunt at Close Shelter House, with everybody having a grand time . . . except, perhaps, Mrs. Rainsberger . . . adviser . . . who got locked in the cemetery while looking for an epitaph and was the object of many jests for months afterwards . . . . Getting back to work the girls compiled an anthology, to be given to the members next year . . . And then more fun . . . as the Scott Zets were guests of the DeVilbiss Zets . . . Finally came a skating party . . . a series of ups and downs but loads of fun just the same . . . And so . . . with their anthology completed . . . the Zets heave a sigh of satisfaction . . . the satisfaction of having completed a task . . . and of having completed it well.

Mary Helen Bettridge, president, makes a pledge perform.

Costumes are donned . . . vain attempts are made to still beating hearts . . . parts are hurriedly rehearsed for the last time . . . as nervous pledges of the Philalethean Literary Society make ready to perform . . . to satisfy the commands of members who seem oh! so wise and important . . . to worried pledges . . . before initiation . . . But at last the play is over . . . and twelve new members are accepted into the society . . . With play over . . . work begins . . . The study of voice culture is decided upon for the year . . . Besides studying the subject at meetings . . . and driving distracted parents from comfortable chairs by practicing their "new voices" at home, the girls brought Mrs. Mary Mericle West to Scott . . . to discuss voice culture at an open assembly . . . In the line of service to the school the Phils gathered a collection of tinkling bells, to decorate our halls for us at Christmas time . . . Also they presented our library with the book, And So Victoria . . . which was much appreciated . . . Thus . . . looking ahead to greater aims . . . the Phils end another successful year.

Pledges, wide-eyed and cautious, hustle from one class to another . . . fearful lest they be accosted by some heartless member of the Periclean Literary Society . . . as if it isn't bad enough just wearing different colored socks . . . big red hairbows . . . signs . . . and no make-up . . . Finally the first pledge week of the year ends . . . Initiation night has arrived . . . Poor little pledges arrive breathless and scared at the spread at Mariellen Miller's home . . . The dreaded night moves slowly on with its embarrassing moments . . . At last peace reigns . . . Twelve hungry girls go home to raid the ice-box . . . thankful that they're Peris at last . . . Thus begins the year for the Pericleans . . . The program for the year is to be the discussion of "best-sellers" . . . A review is given on How to Win Friends and Influence People . . . A debate is held on Gone With the Wind . . . as the Peris live up to their motto, "Nulli Secundae" (second to none) . . . But "all work and no play makes Jill a dull girl" . . . so a beautiful tea is given in the library for the DeVilbiss Peris . . . then a kid party . . . and last and most important of all the Scott Peris sponsor a dance for all Peris in the city . . . Several new books are purchased for the library with the money made . . . as members successfully add the 37th chapter to the history of the society.

SCOTT FRIARS

Frantic members rush from place to place with pencils behind their ears and intelligent expressions on their faces . . . as they attempt to revise their constitution . . . Clashes of opinion result in stimulating arguments . . . as members express their feelings . . . With the constitution revised . . . the club becomes occupied in its drive for new members . . . both interested and interesting ones . . . Grades are checked . . . personalities considered . . . possible values to the group discussed . . . and finally bids are sent out . . . With the new members accepted the club takes up its literary pursuits, discussing the value of classics to modern school youth . . . Henry Esmond is upheld by the majority of the boys . . . much to the surprise of the adviser, Mr. Lamb . . . Scottfriars sit with open mouths as Henri (Sam to you) Pettigrew . . . acting as program chairman . . . presents a book review, with "words of learned length and thundering sound" tumbling out . . . much to the exasperation of the club president . . . who is often hard put to explain what is meant . . . But now as the year draws to a close . . . the members . . . agreeing whole-heartedly with Tennyson about a young man's fancy in the spring and all that . . . turn their minds from more serious thoughts and take up the planning of social meetings . . . And so . . . with joyful anticipation in their minds . . . our members plan to bring to a pleasant close their second . . . and very successful year.

RIDING CLUB

Hoofs clattering . . . hair flying . . . blood tingling . . . eyes shining . . . cheeks glowing . . . The Riding Club starts out at a merry pace for another afternoon's cantering at Douglas Meadows Riding Academy . . . "To help students learn to ride" is the purpose of this club . . . and nobly carried out it is, too, if we may judge by appearances, . . . for here is what we have noticed throughout the course of the year . . . Early last fall . . . on some warm, sunshiny, September afternoon . . . the Riding Club started out with its first ride of the year . . .Our equestrians to be (and incidentally they looked mighty trim in their sporty riding habits) mounted the "nice horsies" and hopefully waited for something to happen . . . Well, things began to happen rather promptly . . . but somehow or other the boys and the girls and the horses managed to struggle through the afternoon . . . without a single casualty, too . . . that is, of course, if we don't take into consideration what came to school the next day in the way of limbs, pitiably sore and stiff . . . and "tummies," very badly shaken . . . But apparently the members were not discouraged, because somewhere around the end of October we find that they don't even show signs of wear and tear the day after a riding session anymore . . . so hats off to the Riding Club! . . . With Mr. Corbett as adviser . . . the club has really done what it set out to do . . . and has done it remarkably well . . .

A violin sends forth an ear-piercing shriek . . . cellos squeak forth with notes which send chills up and down our backs . . . all the while a piano drums monotonously . . . first on one note . . . then on another . . . as Music Guild members "tune-up" their instruments, with the clock on the back wall ticking forth the minutes until the time arrives for the program to begin . . . At last the special bell rings, and the rush of feet sounds through the hall . . . the auditorium doors open . . . students file in . . . accompanied by the hum of conversation and the clattering of seats . . . Finally . . . with seats taken . . . the room becomes quiet . . . The program is about to begin . . . The selection is announced . . . the signal given . . . and strains of sweet harmony reach our bewildered ears . . . Is it possible that this music comes from those same squeaking, shrieking instruments we heard "tuning-up" a few minutes ago . . .? Evidently . . . for we have seen and heard . . . We demand no more proof than this as we again lean back . . . this time to enjoy thoroughly what we hear . . . So once more the Music Guild provides enjoyment for interested students . . . These programs are held during third hour, and admission is by invitation only . . . With Mr. Harvey, new adviser, the club has enjoyed its eighth year of improving the appreciation of good music at Scott . . . and of drawing out hidden musical talents in the students.

"Quick somebody . . . fix that vase . . . all set . . . quiet everybody . . . curtain". . . And so was the first endeavor inaugurated by the Scott Drama Guild . . . enacted before an enthusiastic student body . . . There were weeks of endless searching by all the members . . . and still no Christmas play was available . . . President Shirley Mitchell decided to test her literary talents . . . and the result was a short, one act play about the Christmas spirit . . . The Guild's dramatic aspirants capably handled it . . . and the play proved a definite success . . . This encouraged the members of the Drama Guild, and they all scurried around looking for more material . . . Even accidentally breaking a vase on the stage during a performance didn't deter the action . . . for the Thespians kept right on . . . The Guild's program wasn't all work . . . for play (no pun intended) was also indulged in . . . There were social meetings at the homes of various members . . . These "get-to-gethers" might have been titled "The Women" if one night two stage candidates . . . in the form of Raoul Floripe and Merrill Pheatt . . . hadn't entered . . . Then commenced the tryouts for a play . . . "Meet the Dutchess" . . . and one of the boys surprised everyone with his sonorous voice . . . that of an old time Shakespearean actor . . . What latent talent appeared! . . . Fine discussions were held on all phases of stagecraft . . . censorship . . . and what not . . . In true tragedienne style the girls bemoaned their fate . . . after eating the forbidden calories . . . for who had not aspired to be a Juliet . . . a hundred pound Juliet . . . JUNIOR RED CROSS

Shoe strings, cotton thread, and old clothes in copious cartons, for Delaney, Arkansas, are in great stacks . . . Neckties, cookies, and favors for unfortunate soldiers and old ladies are seen in every corner . . . That's not all . . . what with an apple sale . . . and members exercising their grins on rosy apples . . . as an inducement to prospective purchasers . . . The salesmen became temporary "apple polishers" . . . Shakers waved merrily over the heads of Scotters . . . last November . . . and the sale of these also augmented the service fund . . . If you're ever in the hospital, the Red Cross members try to get wind of it . . . in order to send good wishes for a quick recovery . . . and if you live in New Zealand or Czechoslovakia, you might receive a portfolio from the foreign correspondence committee . . . but since you live in Toledo, you can see the Red Cross exhibits in an amazing cupboard in 307 . . . Besides all this . . . members collected children's books for the Tuberculosis Hospital . . . and with the cooperation of the art department they put book plates in them . . . Mr. Bliss . . . from the science department . . . conducted a full-fledged course in elementary first aid . . .under the auspices of the Junior Red Cross Council . . . NOTICE: The Scottonian wishes to extend its sincere congratulation to all members of last year's Scholarship Team for bringing home to Scott once more the honor of first place in the state. We also wish to extend our thanks to Mr. Bradford for his untiring efforts in organizing this team and to all teachers who gave so generously of their time and help to team members.

HONOR SOCIETY

On one warm morning last May, with sunshine streaming through the auditorium windows upon the faces of proud parents and interested students, the Scott Chapter of the National Honor Society began its annual induction service. Those chosen for membership filed into the auditorium and took their places upon the stage. After several short, introductory speeches, certain promises and pledges were repeated by the group in unison. And thus upon these new members was conferred the honor of membership in the National Honor Society. The requirements for membership are very high and are based upon the student's outstanding record in four things: scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Members in this society are selected by a committee of teachers, who carefully weigh the merits of each candidate. No more than ten per cent of the senior class is inducted, and only about a dozen members of the junior class are chosen. The junior members are elected in order that they may carry on the active work of the society throughout the following year. During this year, under the advisership of Miss Lewis, the active society has kept the student body informed as to the entrance requirements of various colleges. Notes of congratulation were also given out to all possible future candidates among the freshman and sophomores who received no grade lower than B for the first semester's grades. The national emblem of the society is a gold pin on which is the name of the society and the torch of knowledge. The Scott Chapter was chartered in 1932, and, now looking ahead to its next induction, we leave our branch of the National Honor Society, nearing the close of its seventh successful year.

A college scholarship bulletin is posted by Mabel Greene, president.

"Comment allez-vous?" . . . Perhaps very well . . . perhaps very bad is our reply in French . . . but we learn the language and have fun . . . At meetings amusing games are played . . . Much learning was gleaned from these games . . . and club members became more familiar with the language by memorizing forty French proverbs . . . and identifying famous French personages . . . There were friendly sessions around the piano . . . singing (ahem!) French songs . . . ranging from "Frere Jacques" to "Le Marseillaise" . . . We rested our vocal chords . . . while listening to the voice "charmante" of Mlle. Ruth Rogers . . . A correspondence was started with an unknown person . . . 'way across the wide, wide ocean . . . The letter was sent to an address in France . . . partly in English, partly in French . . . In February a famous French movie was sponsored by the French students from Scott . . . French students from other schools were also afforded an opportunity to see "Sans Famille" . . . given entirely in French . . . The film was projected slowly . . . and it enabled us to comprehend the dialogue (Frenchmen speak so fast) . . . Our motto is "French for Fun" . . . and we certainly live up to it.

Officers sing French songs as Thresa Cutler, president, "holds the book".

The strains of "La Cucaracha" emerge from room 229 as El Circulo Espanol carries on an afternoon meeting . . . Minutes are read . . . programs announced . . . games played . . . all in Spanish . . . In fact we were beginning to feel mighty uncomfortable, as we assumed the roles of lookers-on, until we asked several members . . . in spare moments . . . about their Christmas party . . . To each inquiry we received the same answer in good old American . . . "Boy, the food certainly was good!" So we settled back comfortably and felt much more at home, knowing that these boys and girls were human like ourselves . . . even if they didn't speak the same language . . . We also learned . . . from what we could see and from the bits of English scattered here and there . . . that several interesting meetings have been centered about Miss Bingham's collection of articles from Spain, Mexico, and Cuba, brought back from her trips . . . Feeling that we had got what we came for, we slipped quietly out . . . shutting the door upon a club whose purpose, "To learn to speak Spanish sociably," had been well carried out.

CAMERA CLUB

"Click!" goes a camera . . . Just another Camera Club member using to advantage the fact that the club is studying "good subject matter" . . . even if his idea of "good subject matter" happens to be in the form of a certain curly-headed co-ed . . . Lucky lad . . . he always has an excuse for taking pictures . . . anytime . . . anywhere . . . anybody . . . But then we must admit that the members really are deeply interested in their cameras . . . and they really have accomplished a great deal toward improving their photography . . . Well, the year started off in fine style as the members held a night meeting . . . for developing pictures to be sure . . . and then another one for printing pictures . . . November brought a scavenger hunt . . . with members looking mighty peculiar . . . scurrying about . . . collecting everything from Aunt Jane's vacuum cleaner to Uncle John's plaid suspenders . . . At Christmas time came a picture hunt . . . with everybody trying to outdo everybody else in taking pictures on the subject of "Christmas" . . . January brought a talk by Charles Byens . . . author of "Click" . . . Talks by Mr. Welday and Mr. Weiser have been given at various times . . . At present the pending plan of the club is a trip to Walbridge park to take pictures of the cute little pink-faced monkeys . . . or maybe of the funny bear who's bow-legged in front and pigeon-toed in back . . . And so we leave them . . . members of a club well on its feet . . . even though it is not yet a year old.

ART CLUB

Jack Rarrick, president, diligently draws "Donald Duck" on the blackboard.

"Inspiration is what we need!" exclaim the Art Club members . . . And so . . . to start the year out right . . . they go on a roast, with hot dogs and everything . . . even cocoa . . . much to the disgust of several girls on the party who succeeded nicely in artistically spattering their outfits . . . But anyhow it was loads of fun . . . and apparently was just the thing to set the club off with enthusiasm, because there followed very shortly a talk on posters by Mrs. Dean . . . adviser . . . and then a travel talk by a fellow member . . . Well, evidently, a little more fun was needed . . . and a few new members, too . . . so as a climax to hilarious days of pledging an initiation party was held in Ottawa Park shelter house . . . And then back to business again as Miss Refior gave a talk on "Art in Dress" . . . using several girls from her classes as models . . . much to the delight of the boys present . . . then a discussion on "Old American Art" by Miss Morgan . . . Apparently it was time for diversion again . . . and so we found our members at a Christmas party in Mrs. Dean's studio . . . But Christmas was soon over, and the members again felt the desire for art instruction . . . with the result that a talk was given on "Industrial Design" by a representative of Van Dorn & Associates . . . and then a discourse on pottery by Florence Barret . . . A talk was given by Mary Dean on "Art in Sweden" . . . So now . . . still planning future programs . . . the Art Club sees the end of the school year nearing . . . and realizes from its year's achievements that the results have been well worth the efforts.

Pumpkins . . . giggling spooks . . . black cats . . . and snickering witches . . . all appeared at the annual co-ed ball . . . "The Gobblers' Wobble" . . . sponsored in October by the Letter Club . . . But not always are the girls masquerading . . . In fact you would find them enjoying themselves most . . . on any afternoon after school in the gym . . . or the pool . . . or, on nice days, outside . . . In early fall . . . or late spring . . . the enjoying might be to the tune of swishing tennis balls . . . or bending bows and flying arrows . . . or, perhaps, even clicking hockey sticks . . . In cold weather we might find them bouncing basketballs in the gym . . . or splashing in the pool . . . All these activities add up to more points toward an athletic letter . . . and an athletic letter means membership in the club . . . Numerals are awarded the first year. . . letters, the second . . . and chevrons, the third and fourth . . . In order to receive any of these, the girls must keep health cards . . . pass in all subjects . . . participate in at least one sport a season . . . and pass certain standard tests in specified sports . . . February brought "play day" . . . consisting of a swim in the pool . . . games in the gym . . . and sandwiches and cocoa on the pool balcony . . . A skating party was given . . . and as a result money raised for new gym equipment . . . ATHLETICS

C O A C H E S

The members of the athletic board, working through the coaching staff, have done their best to give the Scott student body ample opportunity to enjoy all the pleasures of a complete sports program. This athletic board, composed of Mrs. Katherine Gehring, Mr. Richard Langstaff, Mr. Thad Corbett, Mr. Carl Meissner, Mr. Glen Lake and Mr. Ralph Demorest, president, determines the athletic policy of the school and take charge of the money.

The coaching staff has worked hard this year, as in years past, to turn out winning teams. The job of a coach is not an easy one, but our coaches put their hearts and souls into their tasks and revel in hard work with their teams.

Coach Bob Rettig gives much time in developing a varsity football team. He demands hard work from his team and recommends strict training during the season and good conditioning at all times. This year Coach Rettig turned out a city championship team.

Dave Brown trains his track and cross-country teams with considerable rigor and maintains a record of having won every cross-country meet and every dual track meet since he has been at Scott.

"Doc" Meissner gives his aid to all sports as athletic director, but he specializes in the training of the swimming team. This, nevertheless, does not prevent him from being a friend and adviser of all boys in Scott.

C O A C H E S

Mr. Merickel takes great pride in coaching the varsity basketball team and the lightweight football team. His coaching proves to be of great value to Mr. Rettig. Coach Merickel's teams are fired with his fighting spirit.

Coach Bistline has manifested his knowledge of baseball in the hard hitting team he turned out this year. Besides training boys for the baseball team, Mr. Bistline produces an eager lightweight basketball team.

All the hard driving of the tennis team that enables it to win, reflects back to the work of Coach Thad Corbett. The fact that his team placed highest in the city proves that Mr. Corbett displays intense interest in this sport and correct coaching of his boys. They say he has a good "racket" if only he keeps going in the future as he has in the past.

Mr. Lake is included in the coaching staff. He spends a considerable amount of time with the golf team which he has coached so that each boy swings his club to the tune of careful training.

"Red" McDonald, the ex-boxer, coaches boys who wish to learn the art of defense. Besides putting on the gloves and boxing among themselves, the boys are trained for competition in various tournaments.

The excellent training of the coaches is transmitted to the minds of the team members and manifested in their good work. Because of the various records the teams have made under such able leadership, we all say with one accord to our coaches, "Well done, thou good and faithful servants."

VARSITY CHAMPS

After a first game victory over an out of town team, a hopeful Scott eleven faced the DeVilbiss Tigers in the first intra-city game of the season. The only touchdown of the game was made during the first five minutes of play after a seventy yard drive by DeVilbiss. In the remainder of the game neither team was able to score, in spite of the hard attacks, and, consequently, Scott has yet to defeat DeVilbiss.

Scott swept over Woodward's football eleven to take the game from the Bears when the green and white eleven broke loose to win their first city game.

Woodward's desperate attempt to excel the Scotters proved futile, for the Bulldogs, enraged by their recent loss, tore through the enemy lines to capture the game by the score of 27 to 6.

The Scott Bulldogs left the Libbey Cowboys smoldering in defeat when the Collingwood team carried off the little brown jug, the emblem of supremacy, for the third successive time. After many thrilling plays and much swift action, the game ended with the scoreboard reading Scott 19, Libbey 0.

Scott defeated Central in the next to the last city game to win the sixth of eight games against the Cherry Street gridders. The Bulldogs lost little time in running up a score against the fighting Irish in the first quarter, and maintained the lead up to the last minute of play, to pile up a score of 19 to 0 against the Central eleven.

With this victory, Scott eagerly looked forward to the Waite game, so that they could prove themselves worthy of the faith all loyal Scotters had in them.

FOOTBALL

Scott's football team had five outside of the city games on their schedule. Of these five games the sturdy Scott team fortunately lost but one game. They played hard ball all the time.

A lively second half rally netted Scott a 31 to 13 victory over Cleveland John Adams in the first game of the season. This decisive victory opened Scott's 1937 football season and gave the loyal Scotters much to hope for from their team in future games.

The next game was rather unfavorable for the Scott eleven as they were defeated by Elyria's powerful squad to the tune of 20 to 0. Although Scott fought valiantly, Elyria's speedy backs and penetrating drives were too effective against the Green and White eleven. This game proved to be Scott's final loss of the season.

Scott won a close decision of 7 to 6 from Findlay, when the Bulldog eleven met this team at Findlay. This game has always been an eventful one because both teams have been so evenly matched. After a surprise attack by Findlay, which was overshadowed by a hard fought game on Scott's part, the game ended with Scott triumphant over Findlay for the seventh time in eight games played.

Scott battered over three touchdowns to win the game against Fremont's Little Giants when some beautiful playing by the Scott team ended in a touchdown in the first quarter. The last Scott touchdown, against the heretofore unbeaten Little Giants, was made in the final quarter by working the ball from Fremont's 10 yard line over the goal. This was the final score of the game.

The last out of town game was played against Riley High School of South Bend, Indiana, who dominated their sectional football season. The husky Hoosiers had built up quite a reputation before coming to Toledo. In the terrific battle they waged against South Bend, Scott came out victorious with a score of 18 to 14.

Scott's football season, as far as out of town games were concerned, proved just as satisfactory as the intracity games. We hope the '38 football team has as successful a year.

WAITE GAME

History of the intensely exciting Scott-Waite football games goes back twenty-four years when Scott and Waite started an inter-city competition which is the greatest Thanksgiving Day thrill for thousands of fans. Of the twenty-four games up to this time Scott had captured the honors in fourteen and Waite had won nine. One game came out a tie with the score seven to seven.

Fourteen thousand ardent fans basked in the warm autumn sun at the Waite Stadium while they gave support to their favorite team. Idus Brown captained the hungry Bulldogs to a twenty-four to six victory over the battling Indians. Waite's defeat can be attributed to the smashing drives and alertness of the solid Scott line, as well as to the great offensive work of Al Hoover and the excellent punting of Don Renz.

Scott's first touchdown was the result of a Waite fumble, after Don Renz had booted a long spiral from Scott's twenty-five yard line, which was recovered by Eisinger after another Waite fumble on Waite's five yard stripe. Before Waite's astonished team had a chance to recover itself, Al Hoover had tucked the pigskin under his arm and in three plays battered his way through the stone wall defense of the Waite line. Another punt by Don Renz forced the East Siders to kick from behind their goal line and enabled Scott to push over the second of its touchdowns.

When Al Hoover fought to Waite's thirty yard line, Wiggley Stevens miraculously pulled down two passes from Al Hoover to bring the ball to Waite's two yard line. After three attempts, Al Hoover, assisted by Charles Peyton, and headed by the entire Scott line, again plunged through the line for a touchdown.

The first half ended shortly after Waite's only real offensive gesture culminated in their single touchdown. In the third quarter of the game neither team scored and the time was given over to a punting duel between Sibersen of Waite, and Don Renz.

Scott opened the fourth quarter with a sustained drive from Scott's twenty-two yard line. Stevens carried the ball over the goal line for the third touchdown after a pass from Hoover. Two plays after the next kickoff Don Renz showed himself an alert player when he intercepted a pass from Waite's Russ Davies and ran unmolested thirty-five yards for the final touchdown of the game. In the last minutes of the game jubilant Coach Rettig put in the entire second string team which gave a good account of itself.

With this overwhelming victory Scott concluded a successful season that enabled it to tie for city championship with DeVilbiss and Waite. On account of his hard fighting Al Hoover won the honor of being the best ground gainer in the city and Idus Brown, Bill Kelchner, Willie Stevens, and Clarence Ligibel won city rating as well. Coach Rettig, who won the newspaper rating as the best High School football coach in northwestern Ohio, deserves much credit for the team's victories. We know he will produce just as good a team next year with such players back as Al Hoover and Don Renz.

The lightweight football team this year played hard, fast games in an attempt to win the city championship, but, like the varsity team, they had to be content to share top honors with two other schools, DeVilbiss and Woodward. Scott's reserves won three games and lost three to make an average of 500 percent. The scores of the games are as follows: Wauseon 19—Scott 2; Waite 0—Scott 6; Central 6—Scott 13; Libbey 12—Scott 6; Woodward 6—Scott 7; DeVilbiss 13—Scott 6. Although the lightweights are not supported by many fans, they are important to Scott's football future. They are trained as prospective varsity material by Coach Merickel.

TRACK CHAMPS OF 1937

Scott's 1937 track team upheld the old traditions by winning the city track championship, the Northwestern Ohio district championship, and the international mile relay meet.

The first meet of the season was an indoor meet against Waite High which Scott easily captured. The only other indoor meet held was the international mile relay held at Ontario, Canada. Scott's runners nosed out the Hamilton team, four times winner of the Penn Relay, to win the meet by six inches although they were running on boards for the first time.

On the first outdoor meet, the Mansfield Relay, a well balanced Sandusky team pushed ahead of Scott's 1934 and '35 championship team to win by three points. Scott's Jake Chandler placed first in two events and second in one. The mile relay team, continuing its good work, won the mile relay event.

Coach Dave Brown

Scott won its fourth annual Ohio Wesleyan meet owing to the splendid balance that has marked Scott's track and field team. This meet was a fight between Scott and Sandusky. An outstanding mark of 6 feet 2 inches set by Jake Chandler helped Scott to win the meet. The other Scott runners and also the field stars were just as responsible for the success of the team in this meet, for it was their good cooperation that brought them out on top.

Jake Chandler again proved to be the backbone of the team when Scott walked away with the Miami meet. This meet was an example of Scott's ability, for Scott boys placed fourth and fifth in the broad jump, first in the high jump, first in the discus, third in the javelin, first and fourth in the high hurdles, first and third in the pole vault, fifth in the mile, second in the low hurdles, second in the 880, first in the medley relay and first in the mile relay. On this eventful day Scott's track team amassed 66 points to Steele High's 34 to win its second meet out of two it has entered.

The Northwestern Ohio district meet was an easy one for Scott's team who led the field with 126 points to DeVilbiss' 47 points and Bryan's 46½.

Scott lost the state meet to Sandusky with the score of 34 to 23. Jake Chandler took first in the high jump, and the medley relay team also took first in their event. This winning medley relay team was composed of Drayton, who is not in the team picture, Klag, Peoples, and Smith who are among the best in their special events.

Scott easily defeated every Toledo team to win the city championship. Flath and Paris were outstanding runners and Kemp was the best pole vaulter; he established a new record at Scott of 12 feet 6 inches. Scott's track family included Co-captains Chandler and Flath, ably assisted by Arft, Barnett, Drayton, Furman, Hoover, Hunker, Kemp, Klag, Ligibel, Mason, O'Toole, Paris, Paul, Perkins, Peoples, Proffitt, Smith, and Toffler.

Scott's championship track team credits its many victories to the fact that the members always made it their purpose to work together as a team and to discourage any grandstand performances. The team's ability to cooperate has enabled Scott to set a record of not having lost a dual track meet in eleven years, on account of Dave Brown's expert coaching. We all ought to get behind the team and assist it with our eager support.

BASKETBALL

The basketball schedule was arranged so that the out of town games were all played before the city games began. In the first out of town game Scott lost to Bellevue by the close score of 34 to 31. In the next game Scott, showing great team work, defeated Napoleon by 10 points. Scott lost the last two out of town games to Port Huron and Bowling Green.

The first city game was played against Waite who nosed out the hard fighting Scott cagers by five points with a score of 37 to 42. The next city game, against Central, was another close one in which the Scotters were defeated by a score of 55 to 39. Scott lost to Libbey by a score of 19 to 24. After this game, the majority of the seniors on Scott's team found it necessary to give up their place to members of the lightweight squad. On account of this change Coach Merickel devoted his energy to building up a team for next year instead of aiming at city honors this year. The first game played under this new set up was lost to Woodward by a close score of 24 to 27. Scott's first win of the season was the game against Vocational which Scott easily captured with a score of 66 to 36. With this win the Collingwood cagers gained a new spirit and won 3 out of 5 games in the next series of city games. The scores were as follows: Scott 21—Vocational 18; Scott 32—Woodward 30; Scott 52—DeVilbiss 28; Scott 37—Waite 48; and Scott 24—Libbey 37. The second DeVilbiss game was the outstanding game of the season, because it showed what the Scotters can really do when they have good support and play accordingly. Louris gave a good account of himself for playing only one half of the season, as he made the second highest scoring average, Peyton being first. Jones, Steinberg, and Leroy Lewis also showed much ability and spirit in their playing.

Scott's lightweight team turned out a good performance regardless of the loss of six players during the season. Scott lost the Bellevue game by 2 points. The boys, determined to win, practiced during Christmas vacation. They showed the benefits of this practice by defeating Bowling Green 35—20. This was considered the best game of the season, for hard fighting and clean playing were displayed by both teams. Two lightweight boys were placed on the varsity team. After a reorganization Scott won victories over Central and Libbey. At this time two more boys were withdrawn and put on the varsity squad. Again they gained a victory over Central, followed by losing two more boys. After another reorganization, Vickroy, Lydy, DeBord, Scott, and Gorrell were left to carry out the duties of the lightweights. Scott's final record totaled 5 games won and 7 games lost over a hardfought season.

CROSS COUNTRY

Scott once more captured honors in cross country by definitely defeating each team in city competition. Bill Mason, newly elected captain, Phil Harry, Andy Hunker, and Dean Paul were the only veteran runners. Bill Mason and Dean Paul were the foundations of the team, for Hunker and Harry were handicapped by sickness.

On the first meet of the season Scott overwhelmed the runners from Monroe, Michigan, who were 1936 Michigan State champions. Bill Mason led the Scott harriers so well that Monroe placed only one man in the first eight places. The 2-mile course was covered by Bill Mason, first man, in 11:02 minutes.

The next meet was held with DeVilbiss. Curtiss of DeVilbiss took first place with the time 10:02 minutes. Scott runners won the next seven places, thus chalking up another victory for Scott.

Ed Skinner, a newcomer, and one of the best runners in the State, won a prominent place on Scott's team by leading his team to a victory over Libbey with the time of 10:24 minutes. Libbey was the hardest team in the city to beat, but Scott took them in their stride.

The Woodward meet, which was run on a short course of 1⅞ miles, was won by Ed Skinner and Bill Mason in 9:35 minutes. Other Scott runners upheld their two teammates, and Scott again defeated Woodward.

Scott, led by Ed Skinner, won the Waite meet. Skinner's time was 7:45 minutes for a mile and a half.

The Scott harriers were in fine condition for the district meet and showed the result of excellent training by running undefeated to the finish. Scott placed five runners in the first ten, and won the meet. The scores were as follows: Scott, 36; Libbey, 56; and Waite, 107.

After running beautifully all season Scott slipped up in the State meet and was nosed out of second place by Libbey. Scott took third place in the State. The scores were as follows: Akron East, 73; Libbey, 80; Scott, 81.

Scott excelled in cross country because of the splendid team work. Scott's fine city championship and district championship team consisted of eight hard-fighting boys. Bill Mason was the best captain Scott has seen leading her thinly clad harriers for some time. Brad Grems and Ed Skinner were two boys on the team who ran for Scott for the first time, and were always up in front when the finish came. Dean Paul, Gene Bright, Fred Bair, Emerson Cantwell, and George Cole also gave good account of themselves during the season. This cross country team made one of the best team averages in the country. Next year Gene Bright and Ed Skinner, who will be acting as captain, will be the only ones left to carry on. Most of the cross country runners will figure highly in Scott's 1938 track season, and we have every reason to believe that they will continue their excellent work.

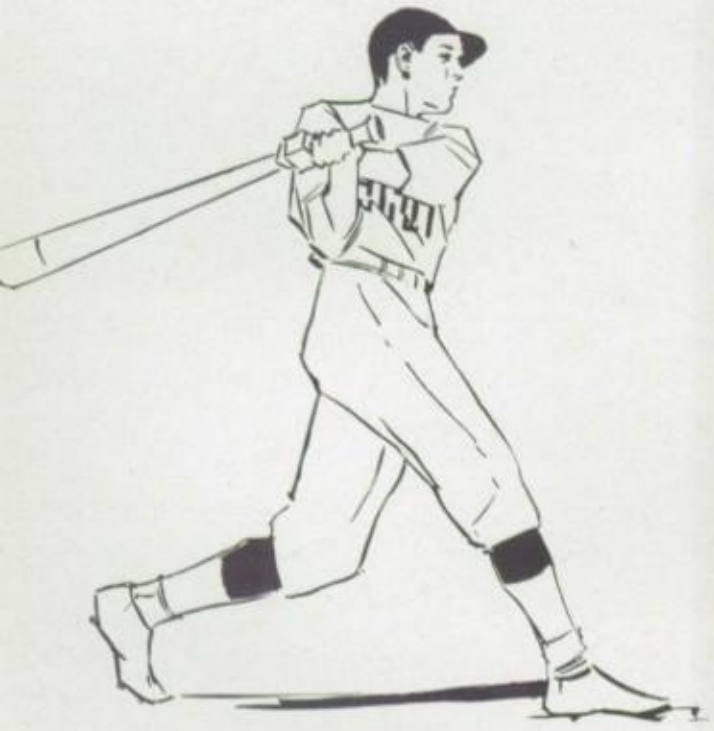
Scott's 1937 baseball team started off the season with only one veteran from 1936, Roy Burkhart. Despite their inexperience, in the first two games Scott easily defeated Holland 8—3, and Walbridge 14—1. We lost the first city games when Waite and Woodward defeated our squad with scores 8—10, and 3—11 respectively.

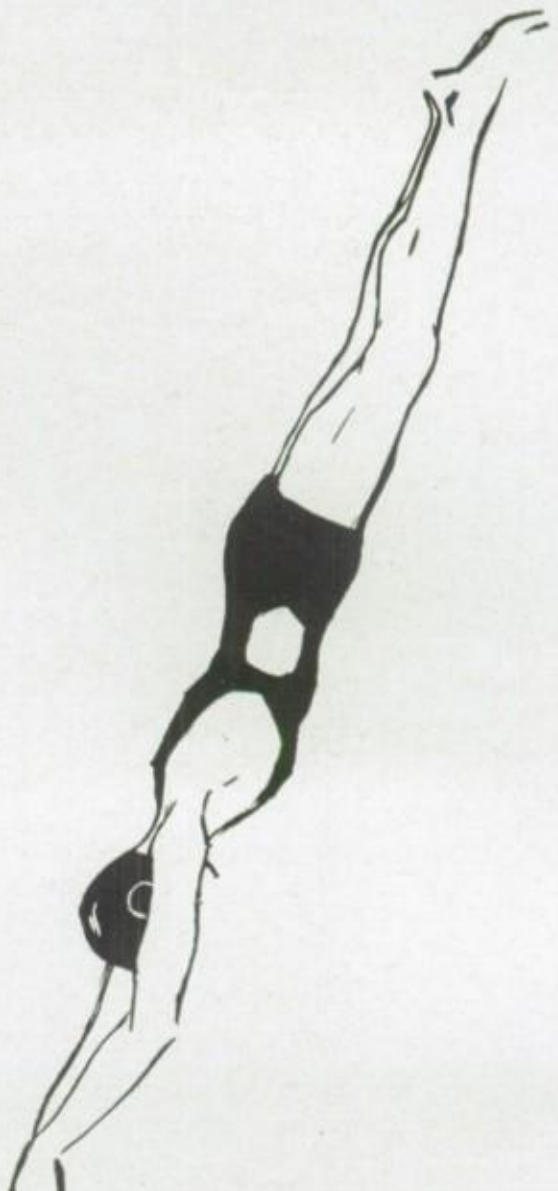
The Scott nine faced their next opponents from Libbey High School rather hopelessly, it seemed, but nevertheless with a strong determination to win. Playing steadily, Scott's team won a hard fought game for a victory of 6 to 1 and were inspired with new hope for the remainder of the season. Would this timely incentive enable Scott to defeat the DeVilbiss ball club? Each boy on the team hoped so, but, better than that, they all worked together and played their best. Roy Burkhart proved his merit when he broke up the tie in the last inning by banging out a long home run to the center field bleachers. As a result Scott won the game with the score of 11 to 10.



Scott lost the remaining city games, the scores of which are as follows: Scott 3—Central 5; Scott 2—Vocational 3; Scott 5—DeVilbiss 10; Scott 2—Libbey 4.

Roy Burkhart led the team in batting with an average of 500 percent, and Bernard Kalniz won the pitching honors. The team, which was composed mostly of underclassmen, this year will be composed of seasoned veterans and Coach Bistline hopes for even better results. Because this book goes to press before we can know the outcome of the '38 season, we can only wish the baseball nine a very successful season. Above all we shall be looking for that true spirit of sportsmanship which the Scott student body admired so much in the 1937 team.

SWIMMING



This year's swimming squad dominated Toledo high school swimming circles. Scott's speedy team cut the waters of the tanks to carry away city honors and to distinguish themselves as city champions. The schedule this year was unusually difficult, because some of the best teams in the state entered into competition in Scott's pool. Two of the teams which brought to Scott some outstanding swimmers were Fremont and last year's Michigan state champs from Monroe. This latter team defeated the maroon and white tankers. It is quite generally recognized that swimming competition is becoming keener each year. Scott's team is handicapped, because most of the other teams in the state consist of boys who have been trained by special coaches since the sixth grade.

Scott had a crack relay team composed of Captain Adelbert Hawkins, Cornell Kurtz, Charles Swartzbaugh and Russell Wenzlau. Those deserving further honorable mention are Russell Wenzlau, for proving himself by placing second in the fifty yard event in the district meet; Charles Swartzbaugh, for placing third in the hundred yard event in the district meet; Adelbert Hawkins, for distinguishing himself in other competition in the two-twenty, and James Benschoter, for his diving ability. Carl Meissner is developing the best balanced swimming teams ever seen at Scott High School. This year's team has been the fastest all around team to swim in the Scott tank. Doc Meissner says that for hard work and teamwork he has had the best group of boys this season that he has ever trained.

We sincerely hope that next year's swimming team is able to live up to the standards set for them this year.

G O L F

The '37 golf team drove through the rough to a successful season under the excellent coaching of Mr. Lake. The team finished third in the city championship playoff, and third in the district meet. Out of the five city teams Scott lost only to DeVilbiss, who won first place, and to Libbey, who won second. In the district tournament the team bowed to only two of the eleven competing teams. Don Wearley made the best average of the Scott team for the year, and Sherman Wonderly took second honors. This year's team will have as a nucleus such veterans as Doug Winter, Adelbert Hawkins, and Ernest Freeman. We are expecting great things from them.

T E N N I S

Scott's tennis team showed considerable fight in their games this season. Their strong, competitive spirit revealed itself in every game. The team included Yale Feniger, Ted Fess, Al Lumm, Mel Weinman, Charles Tobin, and Frank Saxton. It was aided by the excellent coaching of Mr. Corbett and the management of Bill Wetherill. Scott captured the city title and closed the season with a record of 39 games won and 9 lost. Scores were as follows: Scott 6—Waite 2; Scott 6—Libbey 2; Scott 6—DeVilbiss 2; Scott 8—Central 0; Scott 5—Woodward 3; Scott 8—Vocational 0.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

The girls' athletic commission furnishes recreation for the girls through the medium of an athletic program which offers hockey, archery, volley ball, tennis, and basketball. Girls who wish it may also gain training in team leadership. This athletic division also sponsored the football banquet which was a gala event, honoring fall sports. Tickets for the football and basketball games were sold by this commission in cooperation with the boys' athletic commission. It can be said that all undertakings of the girls' athletic commission this year have been successful.

INTRA-MURALS

Boys' intra-mural sports gave the boys who are unable to gain a position in the ranks of the school teams a chance to enjoy their favorite sports. Among the sports offered are basketball, boxing, indoor baseball, horseshoe, and volley-ball. The program is arranged so that there is activity throughout the year. The different teams compete among themselves, and if anyone attracts the attention of the coaches, he may be given an opportunity to show his ability in inter-scholastic competition.

Look these three pictures over. How many of your friends can you find? There's one sitting right behind the girl with the big hat. See her? You do? Good!

These are pictures of studes going and coming to and from outdoor mass meetings and similar stuff. You kids will remember how much fun we had at these outdoor mass meetings and will probably look forward to attending them next year. Doc Meissner has found that this is a very good way to arouse school spirit among the students.

Here's another one of those "there's-one-of-my-friends"" pictures. This is a rush picture of the rushing lunch hour. Incidentally, lunch hour is said to be, by the girls, the most sock "snaggingest" hour of the day, so help them!

POME???

Roses are red.
Violets are blue.
This poem is dead
This page is, too.
So turn it!

S P O O N E R S

Sam Rosenberg, an habitual eater, going to town here.

The teachers are very happy when they get an invitation to one of Miss Malone's luncheons. Here are Stephanie Kajfasz and Dorothy Hogg serving one of them.

Bill Huberick isn't really eating his arm. There's a sandwich on the end of it. Yes, there is.

Mr. Langstaff, Mr. Lamb, and Mr. Dunn as they talk over their luncheon. Incidentally, Mr. Lamb is talking quite a lot these days.

Clay Rector and Marjorie Heier nibble away at stuff and junk together. Aren't they the cutest couple, though?

Miss Schaff, Mrs. Briese, Miss Kirkby, Miss Staadecker, and Miss Humphrey eating one of those luncheons given by Miss Malone.

MORE SPOONERS

Grade cards must have just been given out when this first picture was taken.

Sue Perry and Cornell Kurtz seem to be in a very consoling mood, don't they? Is this consolation, or is this infatuation?

Now, Bill Mason seems to be a little camera conscious, but Ruth Grubbs is enjoying herself. Is this love, is this adoration?

Well! Well!Well! Poor, shy, little Janet Urich is so-o-o afraid of gallant Erle Hill—or is she?

We thought it would be a good idea to see what happened when the average Scott boy went to see a Scott girl (preliminaries only), and this is what we found. Yes, that's George Maludy sitting on pins and needles (ho-hum) wondering what lovely Velda Knab is going to do next. He just can't really be that bored. I guess it must be the famous Maludy technique. Lucky George! Lucky George!

CAMPUS Cuties

Gosh! This is the page I like . . . Girls are pretty smooth after all, aren't they? We're quite proud of our assortment . . . and we hope you'll like them too.

Junior Sue Perry is oh so nice . . . and she's a good shot with a snow ball, too . . . She was throwing one at a friend when this picture was snapped . . . Oh, yes! . . . She missed.

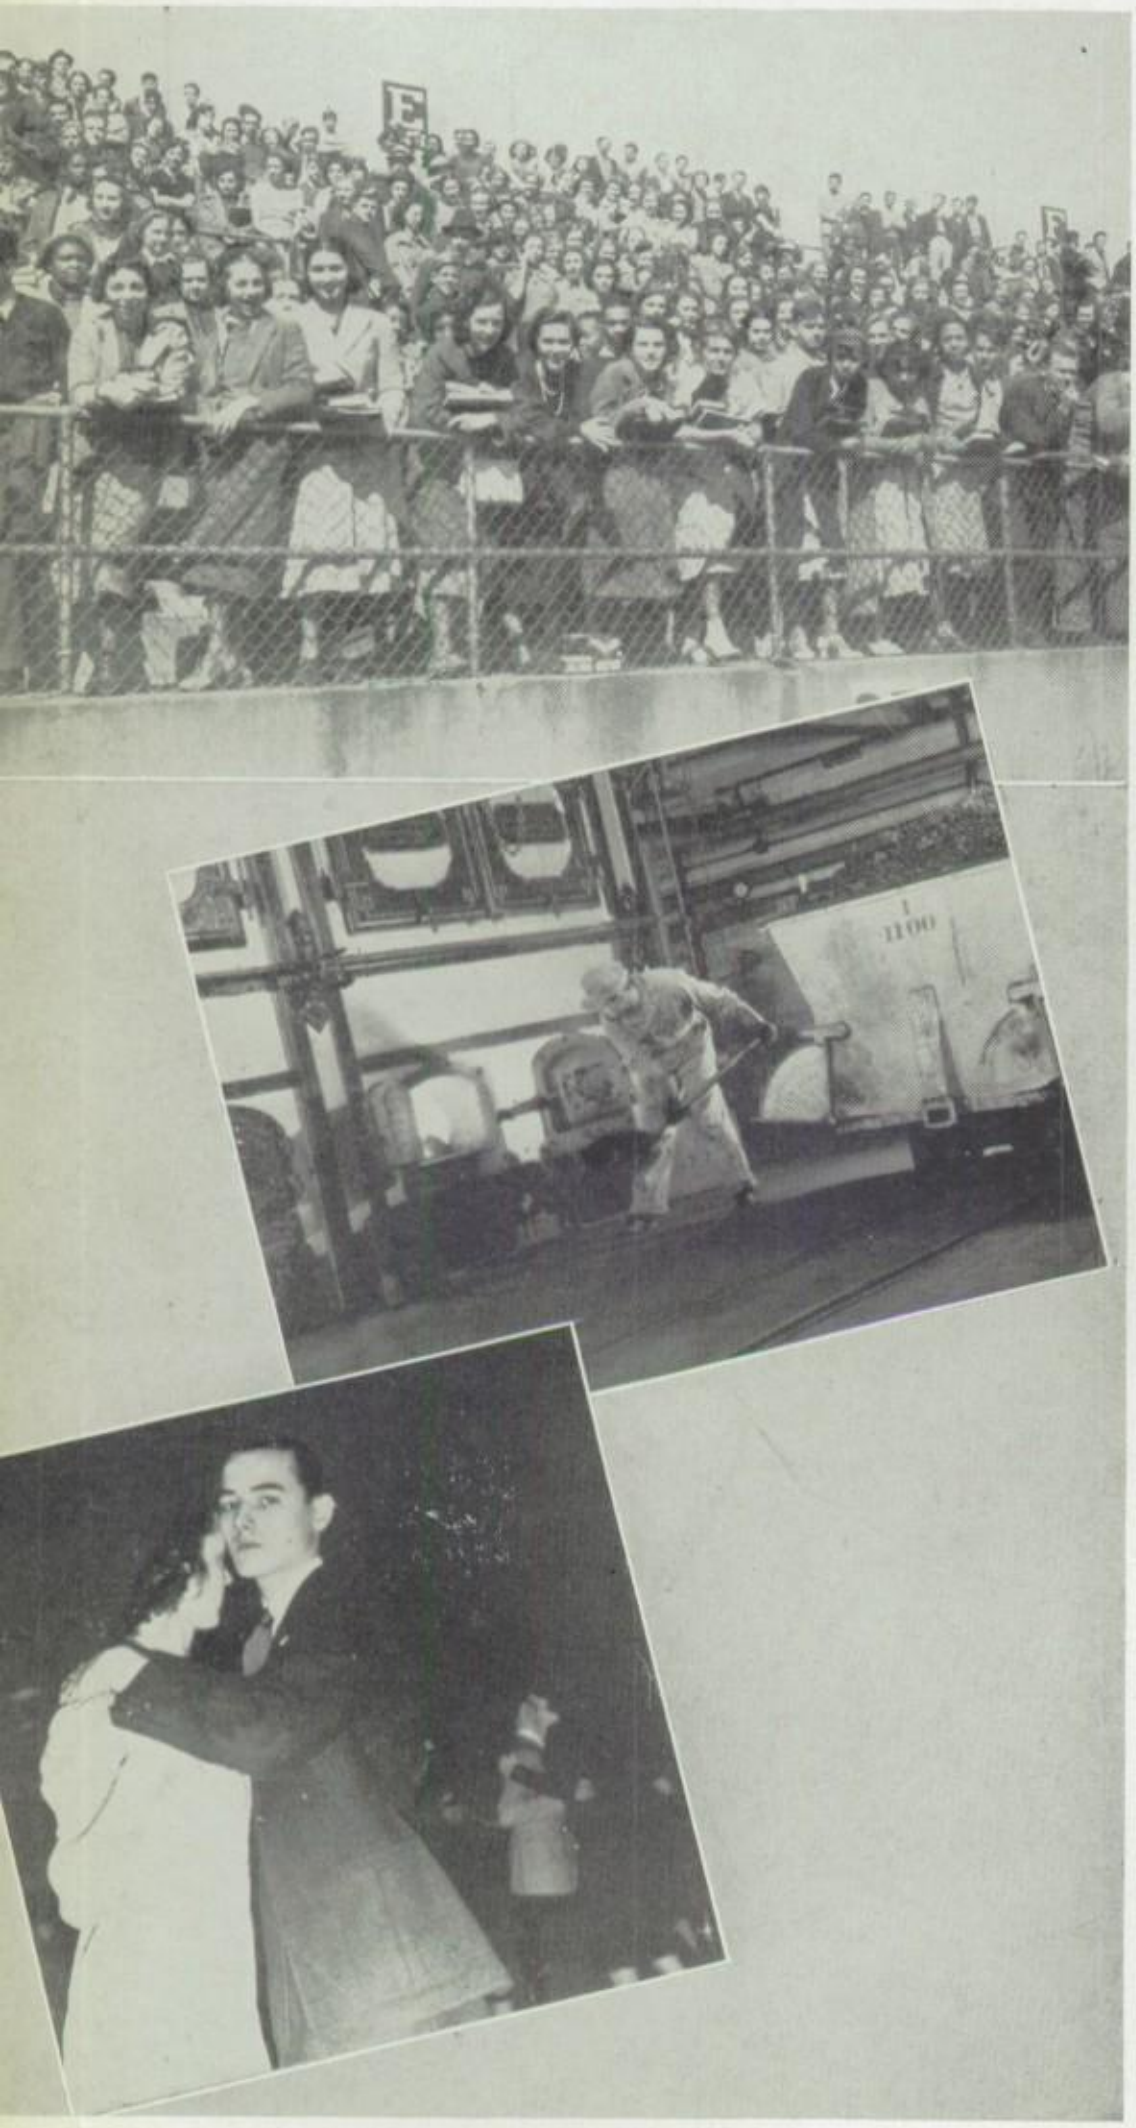
Barbara Sparks, that super scintillating sophomore is really (I mean it) camera shy . . . However, we finally were able to get a picture of her picking some books we accidentally knocked out of her hand . . . Cute isn't she? . . . and hard to get. She certainly is SPARKS-ling . . . Ouch!

Flash! Just got a quote from Sue Perry . . . "Foo killed Cock Robin?"

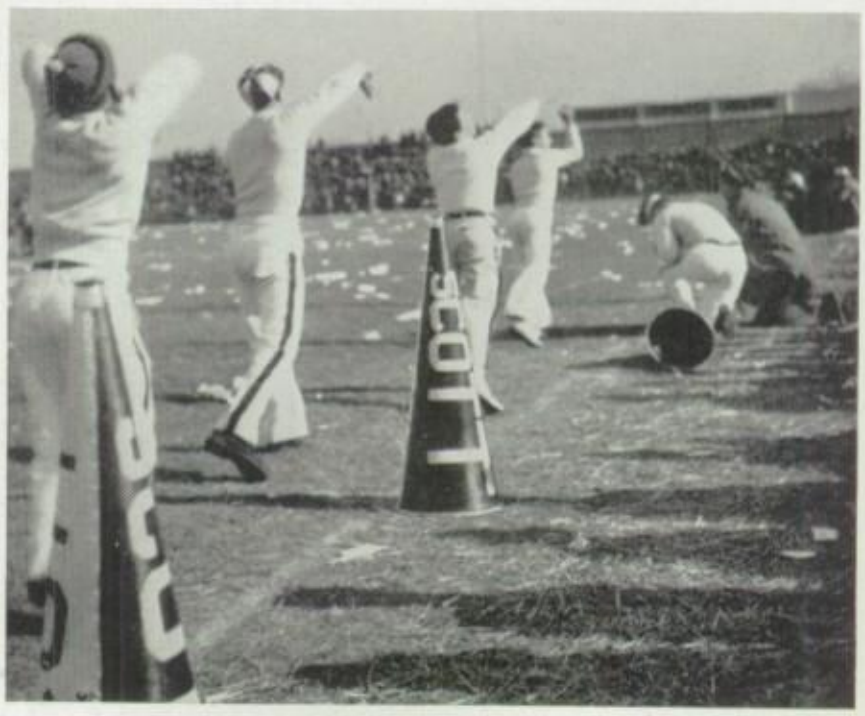
"SPRING is here," said the old man as he jumped up and down on the bed . . . Well, anyway, I don't welcome spring's warm weather half so much as I do seeing Jeanne Spring . . . One of Scott's popular lovelies and she deserves every bit of it. The northern girl with the southern drawl.

When little Betty Hardy smiles that beautiful smile at us we just . . . well, WOW! . . . Evelyn Thornburgh is one of those pert little Peri pledges. The boys thank the gods for the Peris . . . She's a Latin looking creature, this nice Betty Hirsch . . . and Janet Bourque decorates the bell very nicely, doesn't she? . . . Inquisitive Alice Deeds messing around with the photographer's hand lamp as he tries to get a picture . . . Mabel Greene posed a la Hollywood for this one. How do you like it? . . . Another student body favorite is the always smiling Jane Davis . . . Marion Turner, the Myrna Loy of Scott, ambles down the walk at the front of school. Her arms are full of books, too (Note to teachers: books are for effect only, see?) . . . Hey, Jean Earle! Get off that table; can't you see we're trying to take a picture of you? . . . Oops . . . Slips . . . How did that picture get in here? Anyway, those are the legs of Betty Hirsch (you know, the Latin looking creature?).

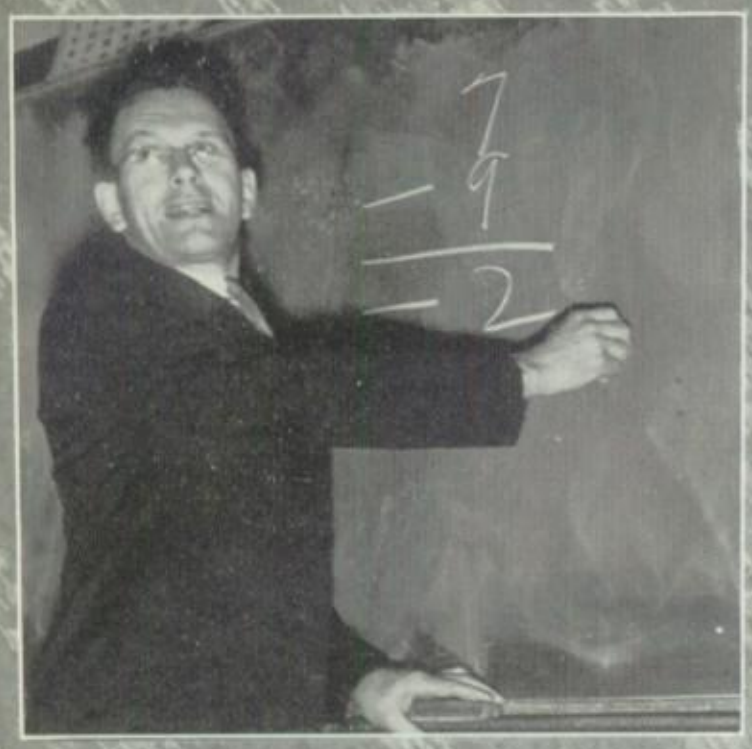
Candid CAME



Mass view of Scott football assembly. Mr. Wilcox, Scott engineer, tries for a bull's-eye. Gene Bright shields Madame "X" from the cameraman. Our own cheerleaders going to town. Erle Hill's feet in the shoes that have been such a fad at Scott this year . . . . Here is George Pinkus in the Scottonian darkroom. . . . Look! Howard Goldstein is beating Coach Ralph Merickel to the tip-off in the annual Faculty-Peiuper Club basketball game. . . . The Riding Club was just about ready to have their group picture taken but we took a candid first. . . . Wilbur "Droops" Blume ready with camera and flash gun. . . . One of the Skelton twins and Mildred Walters standing beside a Christmas tree basket which they decorated (for Christmas, believe it or leave it.) It won first prize. . . . Speaking of Christmas and stuff, we have a wonderful view here of some of the teachers' backs as they leave the Christmas basket display in the auditorium.



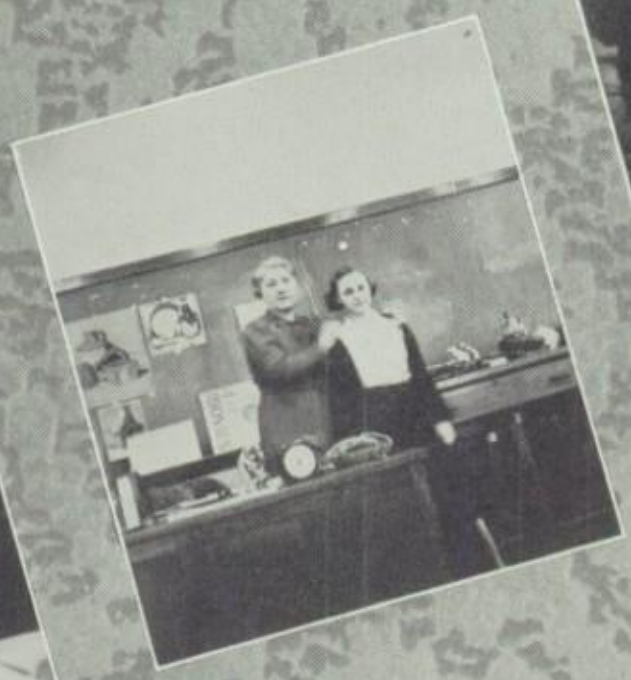
R A C L I C K S



FACULTY FACTS

Please, Mr. Corbett, don't work so hard. That problem isn't very difficult . . . Mr. Lamb and Mr. Demorest are posing very prettily for the cameraman. The occasion was the room warming given Mr. Lamb when he received his new room . . . And here is Mr. Baum in one of his "conferences" . . . Look! This is the coronation with Mr. Demorest and Miss Canniff as king and queen. Our beloved Mr. Timmons was playing the Archbishop . . . Mr. Lamb expounding som'pin' tother . . . Seeing is believing. Yes! That's Mr. Rettig "truckin' on down"—and with a pretty girl, too . . . O. B. Kirk swings out with Velda Knab . . . After an assembly, Mr. Bowsher had a talk with some of the more interested students.

Studes AND STUDIES



No, Bob Kirkland isn't repairing his radio while it's pinned on the wall. The panel editor (during the morning after) just turned it sidewise, that's all. Marvin Wisebaker and Mr. Lake conferring in wood-shop. Leonard Jaworski oils the metal lathe. "Dad" Tucker and Roslyn Marie Rice in a "Conference"?? Jean Irlam models in Miss Refior's style show. Marianne Haughton and Paul Wingart studying—and boy can they study!! James Kowaleski, another "worker-of-the-lathe-er." Bill Ransom planes away in wood-shop. Bob Schroeder shows the principles of star gazing to fellow astronomer, Dorothy Thrush. (Don't be misled, studes! That white object in the background is only a falling star that slipped into the Scott basement.)

Mrs. Meffley, our favorite study hall warden, watches over the studes. Bob Pease, eleven year old mathematical whiz extraordinary, explains some of the intricacies of geometry to the cameraman (who didn't understand a word of it.) The editorial staff of the Thistle take this posing business seriously—the flock of pall-bearers! Dick "Jokes and Riddles" Hyman studying. He was really thinking of his one true love "s". Eleanor Bailis and Matilda Levitin learn the fundamentals of auto driving, we hope.

SENIOR GENIUSES???

Lorraine Schwab resting between scenes during the senior play. Don Tarshis's profile looks so-o-o masterful behind his Argus. Eugene Dautell, that super salesman of the stationer's desk. Bill Wetherill ambitiously rolling our tennis courts. That little man with the big stick—Doug Winter ace of aces among baton tossers. Irene Betty Smith, a very candid camera fan. Kathryn Renschler must be thinking of her dream man. "Musn't grab now," says Glen Bohnsack as Zelaine Burnham tries uselessly to reach her purse. Oh-oh-oh, a bit of sophisticated contemplation—Mary Lou Roby studying her script from "The Tin Hero." "Let me think, where was the kitchen to be?" muses Betty Seiss, one of the few female draftsmen at Scott. Steve Kolvas seems to be consulting Mr. Demorest on a very important matter. Harold Scheer trying his hardest to look studious for the camera-man. Has shy Dorothy Entine turned to classical composing or is that just another of her romantic moods? Dosen't Don Holmes look simply "Bored of Education" (or does he?) Don Ewing hard at work on a poster in the Art room. Thistle Editor Judy Blair works tediously on a future edi-torial. The cameraman catches Fred Wood in a dubious mood pondering over one of his clever poster-cartoons.

WHO'S WHO AT SCOTT

People who are famous are very seldom proud;

They never flaunt their talents great,

They say they're just the gifts of fate

And how they frown on public notice loud!

But we believe that those who work and reach the top

Deserve a token in reward,

And so we're going to record

Our lists of Scott's Who's Who before we stop.
